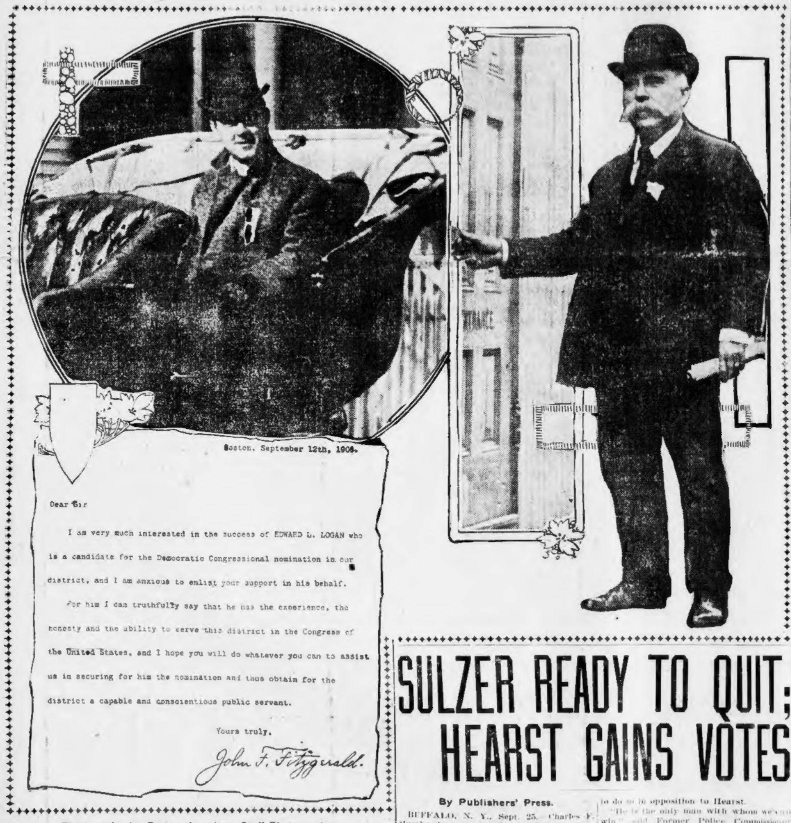
FORGED LETTER FOR LOGAN



Boston, September 12th, 1906.

Dear Sir

I am very much interested in the success of EDWARD L. LOGAN who is a candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in our district, and I am anxious to enlist your support in his behalf.

For him I can truthfully say that he has the experience, the honesty and the ability to serve this district in the Congress of the United States, and I hope you will do whatever you can to assist us in securing for him the nomination and thus obtain for the district a capable and conscientious public servant.

Yours truly,

John F. Fitzgerald.

FORGED LETTER: 2 LEADING CANDIDATES.

Another photograph shows Senator Logan arriving at his polling station at the corner of Dorchester and Second street, Ward 14. The other picture is from a photograph of Candidate Edward W. Dixon as he was entering the polling booth for Precinct 3 of Ward 6 on North Bennet street.

In the excitement of bringing out a record vote in the Boston primaries, charges of forgery and repeating are being made to-day.

Joseph F. O'Connell, candidate against Senator Edward L. Logan for the tenth district congressional nomination, secured a copy of a letter which had been sent to many city employes in the district urging them to vote for Logan. The letter was signed in ink with the name "John F. Fitzgerald."

Mayor Fitzgerald indignantly denied that he wrote such a letter. Mr. O'Connell is to place the matter in the hands of District Attorney Moran and ask for an investigation. The letter bore the label of the Allied Printing Trades and the number "-6."

The letter was as follows:

Boston, Sept. 12, 1906.

Dear Sir—I am very much inter-

SULZER READY TO QUIT; HEARST GAINS VOTES

By Publishers' Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Charles F. Murphy is now openly for William Randolph Hearst for Governor. Congressman Sulzer, who was expected to divide the Tammany strength, has consented to quit.

The selection of Lewis Nixon for temporary chairman is regarded as a Hearst victory.

William F. Sheehan still sticks to the statement that Hearst will be beaten.

HEARST GAINS IN STRENGTH EVERY HOUR AT BUFFALO

By Boston American Leased Wire.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25.—More and more like Hearst for Governor does the situation look from hour to hour. In fact, it is now doubtful if the Tammany bosses could control their delegates if they sought to do so in opposition to Hearst.

"He is the only man with whom we can win," said Former Police Commissioner James P. Mack of New York to-day, "and he is the only candidate that a sane convention can nominate. I am an organization man, but I have no hesitation in saying that if Hearst is not nominated at this convention many of the leaders of my organization will be beaten in their own bailiwicks. I am a Tammany man and an organization man, but I am for Hearst, first and last because I think that he is the only man that we can win with. He has every qualification of a successful politician, papers, money and the good will of the people. What in Heaven's name more do the Democrats of the State want? With fusion we can win, without it we go to an early grave. What is the use of hurrying our own funeral."

Partisans and delegates who have been most strongly antagonistic to Hearst's nom-

Policemen and Negroes Battle in Dark and Several Are Killed. United States Troops Rushing to Aid of State Soldiers and the Police in Preserving Order.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 25.—Brownsville, the negro settlement on the outskirts of the city where Policeman Heard was killed last night and several other officers wounded, was raided to-day by the Georgia militia and 257 negroes were arrested. There are still hundreds of negroes in the settlement, however, many of them armed and ready to fight, and it is feared a pitched battle may be fought before the day is over.

However, the authorities are determined to arrest every man carrying a weapon.

With the four hundred students of the Gammon Negro Seminary and President W. J. E. Brown of the faculty arrested to-day, the total number of negro prisoners in the city is 1,000.

SOLDIERS ON THE WAY.

United States soldiers from Fort McPherson are coming by forced marches to help restore order. They will be used to back up the State authorities.

Notices signed "K. K. K.," representing the Klu Klux Klan, the old organization of reconstruction days, have been posted throughout the city. They warn negroes to "read and run."

An unusual incident in connection with the race riots is announced in the death of Mrs. Robert C. Thompson, who was literally frightened to death when two negroes were attacked by a mob in the yard of her next door neighbor. Mrs. Thompson was in a delicate condition of health and yielded to the shock of hearing pistol shots at such close range.

The fight at Brownsville last night appears to have been between officers and negroes. A raid was made on the "Before Day Club."

The negroes resisted and in the dark round after round was exchanged. So intense was the darkness that neither friend nor foe could be distinguished. The officers fired as they saw the flashes of the negroes' guns.

When Officer Heard fell, Policeman Jordan used his body as a shield and pumped lead into the mob, killing four negroes.

MOB ATTACKS CAR.

Finally several prisoners were rounded up and the officers started with them for town on a car. News of Jordan's killing had preceded them. When Crew street was reached a mob pulled officers and prisoners from the car. In the fight over the blacks two escaped. They ran onto the porch of Park Commissioner R. E. Manley. There they were overtaken and fired upon.

Leaving the negroes for dead, the mob returned to secure the others. Manley discovered that the negroes were not dead, and had them removed to the Grady Hospital, where it is believed they will die.

KILLS GIRL ON TROLLEY, THEN SHOOTS HIMSELF

JEALOUSY SAID TO HAVE LED TO TRAGEDY BY CONCORD, N. H., POLICEMAN.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 25.—Miss Julia Chadwick of Penacook Village, telephone operator in the Concord exchange, was shot and killed in the vestibule of a trolley car in Penacook to-day by Police Officer Whitney D. Barrett of that place. Barrett then shot himself, probably fatally.

Knowing Barrett was pursuing her with a loaded revolver, the terrified girl fled for the trolley, intending to escape to this city. When she saw Barrett following her Miss Chadwick said to the motorman:

"Oh, don't let him on; don't let him on."

Barrett was too quick, however. He jumped into the vestibule and fired a shot at such close range that the motorman's face was burned by the flash. Miss Chadwick died in half an hour.

Jealousy is reported to have caused the deed.

Barrett had made a previous [illegible] attempt to shoot Miss Chadwick [illegible] L. Davis's coal office, firing one shot at the girl as she was passing along Canal street in Penacook. George Jenness wrested Barrett's revolver away from him while the girl fled toward her car.

Barrett ran to the police station, secured another revolver and then the tragedy resulted. Barrett is in serious condition in the hospital.

Barrett is about fifty years old, married and has a family. His victim was thirty years old, and the daughter of John Chadwick.

JUMP FOR NICKEL IS DEATH TO BOY

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A bright new five-cent piece was responsible for the death of Charles Wallack, nine years old, who lies in a casket to-day at his home on Lexington avenue.

The boy was run over and instantly killed by a truck last night. John Bossing, the driver, was locked up charged with homicide. The youngster was playing when the nickel rolled out of his pocket into the street. He sprang after the money and fell under the truck.

Arrested as Repeaters.

The first arrest on the charge of repeating was made in Precinct 4, Ward 7, by officers of the Lagrange street station. A man who gave his name to the police as James McCarthy, forty-eight years old, of Providence, R. I., attempted to vote on the name of Henry M. Towle.

The clerk found that Towle, according to the records, had already voted. He called the officers, and McCarthy was placed under arrest. In his pocket was found a letter addressed to Towle, with the request that he vote for one of the candidates. McCarthy is held at the station and will be put through the third degree in an effort to learn more of his history.

Another arrest was made at Precinct 3, Ward 15, when James Foley, aged thirty-five years, who refused to give his address was charged with trying to vote under the name of Patrick J. Foley of No. 224 West Fifth street, South Boston. Patrick J. Foley had already voted, according to the caucus records. At No. 224 West Fifth street the police say James Foley is not known.

Challenges in Ward 8.

Challenges were frequent in Ward 8, where Daniel J. Kiley and Edward W. Dixon are battling for the senatorial nomination. The contest is bitter. James Farley, one of Dixon's lieutenants, challenged a number of city employes.

David Mancovitz, working for Kiley, was compelled to stop announcing that the ticket he held out to prospective voters, which it is said contained Kiley's name, was "the Jewish ticket."

At the booth, at the corner of Hancock and Myrtle streets, a man, who gave his name as Henry Smith, was challenged by George Davis, president of the Ward 8 Independence League. Smith was allowed to vote, but Davis says he will contest his right to cast a ballot.

In the O'Connell-Logan contest both candidates did much hustling to get out a big vote, and the district was gone over with a fine tooth comb in order that no man with a right to cast a ballot in the Democratic caucus should escape.

Senator Logan, accompanied by Major Joseph J. Kelley, toured the district in an automobile. At every voting booth in wards 13, 14 and 15 he was on hand to give instructions to his workers.

Logan Is Confident.

"Going to win, sure," said Senator Logan.

"I'm the winner by a good majority," declared Mr. O'Connell.

District Attorney John B. Moran, not apparently perturbed, took forty-five seconds to drop into the wardroom of precinct 6, Ward 16, at 8:54 and cast his ballot. He nodded to those who greeted him, smiled a few times, stopped for a word or two here and there and was away. He was held up after coming from the booth by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. He was asked what he had to say.

"What do you want me to say?" he asked.

"Whatever is on your mind."

"I never think about politics until after 7 o'clock in the evening, when my duties as District-Attorney are over for the day."

"What is the outlook?" persisted the reporter.

"Come around after 7," was the laconic reply of the District-Attorney, as he hurried off to Pemberton Square.

Moran Men Claim 21 Wards.

Mr. Moran's managers, however, do not refuse to say what they think about the way things are going in the city. They claim that when the result is made known it will be found that Moran has carried twenty-one out of the twenty-five wards.

Mr. Quincy, however, doesn't agree with that statement. The "mystic seven" have figured out that they have opposition to Moran in seven wards, with a total of fifty-eight delegates. They figure to get some more in the country if all goes well.

One of the features of the voting to-day was the announcing of the voter's height. He was required to give this information when getting his ballot from the clerk, and when he placed it in the ballot box the information was bawled out to the assembled crowd in the room. Therefore no man who was six feet tall could hope to vote on the name of a man who was known to be not much over five feet. This is another precaution against repeaters, according to the Election Commissioners.

Election Commissioner David B. Shaw had to hustle down to Precinct 3, Ward 8, at an early hour to straighten out a wrangle between the Kiley and Dixon factions. A Kiley man's vote was challenged. He came out of the booth and protested to some of his friends. Dixon followers heard the complaint and mixed into the argument.

Then there was a general dispute. So many voters suddenly began to "Want me rights" that the police officers came out of the booth and tried vainly to appease the ruffled disputants. Some one telephoned Commissioner Shaw, who whirled down there in his automobile. After assuring all that there would be a fair deal Mr. Shaw managed to still the tumult.

In the Republican ranks the chief fight centred around the independent candidacy of Eugene N. Foss, of Boston, for the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor against Eben S. Draper of Hopedale. Foss delegations had been filed in every ward in Boston, and his friends were on hand to get out the vote.

To the average voter, the new caucus law seemed to work well to-day. Each voter, upon entering the polls, was asked by the clerk:

"Democrat or Republican?"

When the books showed the voter's name he was handed the ballot he asked for. After marking it the voter was asked his name again as he left the polling booth, and a second record made, this one giving the height of the voter for reference at the next November election.

Hustling in Ward 10.

In Ward 10, where a Republican nomination means an election, there is much hustling on account of the fight for the representative nomination. There are three men out for the two nominations. Representative George Moore, who has been in office four years, wants to be returned. Representative J. Bernard Furber and Councilman Malcolm E. Nichols think Moore has had enough. They claim now that in precincts 1 to 4, where Moore is supposed to be strongest, they are showing well against him.

In Ward 7, included in the Third Senatorial District, lieutenants of Kiley and Dixon were on hand before the opening of the polls, and the former claimed that city employes were kept from their work to help Dixon by order of the Mayor. The polls opened with a very light vote, and few ballots were cast up to 9 o'clock. In the Representative fight "Honest" John Quinn is opposed by Lawyer Bartholomew W. Brickley, and Quinn is putting up a hard struggle to down his young opponent.

In Ward 9 a hot fight is in progress for the Representative nomination. Daniel L. Flavin, endorsed by the machine, is being opposed by the labor interests, as is Edward F. Fitzgerald, another machine candidate. There are five other candidates in the ward who have combined their interests to down the machine.

In the South Boston wards Alderman Frank J. Linehan and James F. Creed are making a hot contest for the seat of Senator Logan. Each candidate has a score of workers scattered about the polling places endeavoring to secure converts to his side. The vote is heavy. Linehan claims that he has the district solid, but Creed is also confident of victory.

Where Joint Caucuses Are Being Held To-day

Here are the ten cities and two towns in which to-day the voters of the Commonwealth are choosing in joint party caucuses by direct nomination, their choice for Representatives, for Senators, for Congressmen, and indirectly through pledged delegates, their choice between the candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor on the two tickets:

BOSTON,	CAMBRIDGE,
CHELSEA,	GLOUCESTER,
LAWRENCE,	LOWELL,
NEWTON,	QUINCY,
SOMERVILLE,	WALTHAM,
GROVELAND,	MIDDLEBORO.

DESPERATE FIGHT TO CARRY WARD 17

With the largest vote in its history cast in Ward 17 up to noon the Tammany Club, under the guiding hand of Alderman James M. Curley, is engaged in a desperate struggle to stem the tide of opposition.

The big bout in Ward 17 is between Logan and O'Connell for the Democratic congressional nomination, with Tammany's indorsement given to Senator Logan. Tammany expected to deliver the Ward 17 vote to Logan with a 500 majority, but was dismayed this morning to find that many of the younger members were out shouting for "O'Connell."

Both candidates are closely watching the Ward 17 vote, and have made flying visits there to look after their interests. So far, it is claimed, Candidate O'Connell has more than held his own.

McEttrick in the Lead.

Representative Michael J. McEttrick and William Humphrey are battling with Tammany's candidates, John J. Conboy and William J. Gleason, for the House of Representatives. It is expected that Representative McEttrick will easily triumph, and the fight is a toss-up between the other three. Candidate Gleason is ill with typhoid fever.

In the Ward 18 senatorial fight Thomas F. Curley, chairman of the Ward 17 Democratic Committee, is running ahead of his opponent, Timothy L. Connolly, and Tammany expects to push Curley into the Senate by a comfortable margin.

Three candidates are out for the House of Representatives in Ward 18. They are the present Representatives, Thomas A. Fay and M. P. Daly, and John J. Good, who served in the City Council for three years. The big fight is between Good and Daly, and shouters for both are optimistic over the vote cast so far.

Big Workingmen's Vote.

In the senatorial fight for the Jamaica Plain district three men are in the running. They are Representative John J. Butler of Ward 18, William W. Clarke of Ward 19 and Jeremiah J. Houran of Ward 22. It has narrowed down to a scramble between Clark and Butler, and their efforts have brought out a wonderfully large workingman's vote.

Previously Butler has been a hot favorite in his district, but considerable opposition had developed to him on account of his being employed by the Boston Elevated. Clark is waging war with the "L" as an issue and is brim full of confidence.

Four candidates are out in the House of Representatives race in Ward 19. They are Joseph D. Mooney, present Representative; Florence Driscoll, John J. Keley and Daniel J. McCarthy.

In Ward 22 John L. Robb and Benjamin Delheim are in the running for the House, and both are strong with big delegations of workers.

MAYOR'S LIEUTENANT CHALLENGES CITY WORKERS IN WARD 8

According to Martin M. Lomasney, fully fifty per cent. of the voters in Ward 8 cast their votes before noon to-day, and the political leader of the ward was very confident of the victory of the West End's candidate for Senator, Daniel J. Kiley. To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter Mr. Lomasney said: "I have been all around the ward. Over fifty per cent. of the votes have already been cast, and it's a cinch for Kiley. He will win in a walk. I feel that he will carry Ward 8 very easily, and he is not being cut in this ward."

Mr. Kiley was equally confident, too. He said:

"Judging from the vote already polled, I will win. Everything looks favorable. I will carry Ward 8 by a large majority, and also Ward 4, in Cambridge. I will get my share of the votes in Wards 6 and 7 also."

In precinct 4, McLean street, James Farley, one of Mayor Fitzgerald's lieutenants, challenged every city employe who voted. Mr. Kiley heard of this and he drove to the polling place and argued the matter with Farley. It is possible that Kiley may make a complaint to the Election Commissioners regarding Farley's action.

Kiley voted at 6 o'clock at precinct 3, on Hancock street, and Mr. Lomasney cast his ballot in precinct 4, on McLean street, at 9:30 o'clock. Joseph P. Lomasney, brother of the leader, is working in precinct 2 to-day.

LABOR MEN WORK HARD FOR DEFEAT OF GROSVENOR

LYNN, Sept. 25.—The labor voters of Lynn and Swampscott are conducting a bitter fight against the effort of Senator John M. Grosvenor to win renomination, and the members of the Wage Earners' Club are conducting a house-to-house canvass to-day to defeat the Senator, who, they assert, is opposed to organized labor.

The Wage Earners were determined to bring out a big labor vote [illegible] and at the primaries, which opened at noon, 2 and 4 o'clock, according to the size and location of the districts, watchers will be stationed to insure fair play. The Swampscott caucuses will also be supplied with watchers, who will see to it that the polls are not closed before the advertised time as they claim was the case last year.

Senator Grosvenor is opposed by the labor interests, which are paramount in this district, because he "ducked" on the overtime bill, voted for the weight bill, and was against the picketing and leased shoe machinery bills.

The candidates who oppose Senator Grosvenor's renomination is William R. Salter, who has been five times in the Legislature, and who was defeated by Senator Grosvenor last year by a very small majority. He is the father of the "Nahant Bathhouse" bill. He is supported by the labor men.

The Congressional fight in the Seventh District, which centres in Lynn, is a three-cornered affair, and the most courageous prophet would not attempt to say what the result will be. Opposed to Congressman Ernest W. Roberts are Benjamin M. Johnson and Frank D. Allen. Lynn has thirty-nine delegates, and Allen and Johnson have selected the same delegates. Roberts's friends claim that this is trickery, and will eventually act as a boomerang and do more good for the Congressman than harm. The entire delegation in the district is 133, and Allen claims that he will be nominated.

Congressman Roberts has a great many warm friends and his campaign managers assert that they are sure of the continued success of their candidate.

CITIES AND TOWNS EARLY AT THE POLLS

The voting at the caucuses outside of Boston began early. In the following cities the political situation is much the same as it is in Boston—plenty of excitement and hot rivalry:

Cambridge, Chelsea, Gloucester, Lawrence, Lowell, Newton, Quincy, Somerville, Waltham, and towns of Groveland and Middleboro. Joint caucuses are held in these cities for naming at the same time the candidates of both Republicans and Democrats. In other sections of the State, separate caucuses will be held to-day and to-morrow.

A big fight is raging to-day in the Fifth Congressional District between Congressman Butler Ames and Frank E. Dunbar, both of Lowell. In the Sixth Congressional District Congressman A. P. Gardiner has as his opponent Senator George A. Schofield, but there is little indication that the present Congressman will be defeated.

The Seventh Congressional District, which includes Chelsea, Malden, Melrose, Everett, Revere and Lynn, is stirred by a bitter fight between Congressman Ernest W. Roberts and Benjamin N. Johnson of Lynn. Republican caucuses are also held in the district to-night.

In many of the outside cities, the polls do not open until late in the forenoon, or until noon, as is the case in Cambridge.

FRANK GAYLORD ALIVE AND WOULD RETURN TO HOUSE

Although rumor has had him dead on three different occasions, Representative Frank Gaylord of Ward 12 is very much alive and is seeking the Republican nomination in his ward.

For nearly two months he has been in the City Hospital where he was operated on for appendicitis. At one time his condition became so serious that his life was despaired of, and this started the rumors that he was dead. Gaylord says that he will do some kicking on Beacon Hill if Ward 12 returns him.

SEEK TO WIN HEARST MAN BY $3,000 BRIBE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25.—State Committeeman James O. Bennett of Silver Creek, Chautauqua County, was offered $3,000 yesterday to desert Hearst and assist the Ryan-Belmont-Sheehan ring of corporation Democrats in organizing the Democratic State Convention.

The money was offered to him in the Iroquois Hotel. Then he was told to meet Joseph Fanning of August Belmont's office at the corner of Washington and Eagle streets. Bennett met Fanning at the place appointed. The two men talked for five minutes in the presence of four witnesses.

Then Bennett returned to the Iroquois Hotel. He met by appointment State Senator Pat H. McCarren of Brooklyn. McCarren and Bennett conversed for more than ten minutes while seated in the corridor at the head of the stairs on the third floor of the hotel.

To See the Game Through.

Mr. Bennett had no intention at any time of selling out to the Ryan-Belmont-Sheehan ring. He was called into the room of a leading New York State politician and asked where he stood. He declared that he favored the nomination of Hearst. He was told that he could have $3,000 if he would vote with the anti-Hearst men in organizing the convention. He asked where the money was to be had, and was told to meet Mr. Fanning at Main and Eagle streets and discuss the subject further.

As soon as Bennett was through talking to the Ryan-Belmont representative he went to William J. Conners's headquarters and repeated the conversation which passed between them. He told of the attempt to purchase him, and the name of the man who made the proposition. Mr. Conners advised Bennett to see how far the criminal element opposed to Mr. Hearst would go in the desperate campaign to defeat the will of the people. Mr. Conners also advised that Mr. Bennett be kept in view until the end of the remarkable drama was in sight.

As to "Delivery of Goods."

After a later conference Bennett said that McCarren's final words were:

"You deliver the goods; we'll do our part. How can we know that you will vote with us?"

"That plan works both ways," Bennett declares he answered. "How am I to know that you will make good after I have played the game for you?"

"You can depend on me," said McCarren, "my word is good."

Bennett refused to agree to the proposition. And there the matter ended.

Nixon for Chairman.

The Democratic State Committee adjourned at midnight, after selecting Lewis Nixon for temporary chairman of the convention, which meets at noon to-day, when his chairmanship will be made permanent.

The important developments of the day may be summarized as follows: The up-State delegates are standing firmly for Hearst and refuse to listen to any suggestion that a man other than he be nominated. McCarren is booming Gaynor, Tim Sullivan is for Sulzer and Murphy is undecided as to his choice, but is much impressed by the sentiment of the up-State men for Hearst, and remembers that Hearst is exceedingly strong in New York city.

The Hearst supporters won a victory in the selection of Nixon as chairman, as Nixon was opposed by John B. Stanchfield, the friend and candidate of the Plunderbund.

Leave Contests to Convention.

The State committee voted unanimously to leave all contested seats to be settled by the convention.

The up-state delegations who are earnestly impressing the necessity of Hearst's nomination upon their city brothers include those from the counties of Allegany, Broome, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Chenango, Clinton, Columbia, Cortland, Delaware, Dutchess, Erie, Franklin, Fulton and Hamilton, Greene, Jefferson, Lewis, Monroe, Montgomery, Niagara, Onondaga, Ontario, Orange, Orleans, Oswego, Ostego, Putnam, St. Lawrence, Schoharie, Schuyler, Seneca, Steubin, Sullivan, Tioga, Ulster, Warren, Wayne, Wyoming and Yates.

OVERCOME WHILE FIGHTING FLAMES

While trying to extinguish a fire in the cellar of No. 80 Hampshire street to-day a young man named Blake was overcome by smoke. He was carried from the cellar. The fire, which did little damage, was in a three-story wooden tenement house block at Bristol and Hampshire streets.

DYSPEPSIA EASILY CURED

when you go at it right. Natural digestives like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets relieve the stomach of all work and enable it to regain health and [illegible]. Even doctors admit that there is nothing better for dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. All druggists—50 cents the box.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfils every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the Boston Daily American. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

TWO MEN HELD IN NEW YORK MURDER; POLICE BELIEVE HEADLESS VICTIM SLAIN AFTER MONEY QUARREL

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Suspected of knowing something of the headless murder mystery, two young Greeks, John Randakes and George Capenake, have been taken into custody by the police, who now believe that they are in a fair way to clear up the case.

It is now thought that the body of the man found in the gunny sack last Sunday morning at Eleventh avenue and Thirty-sixth street is that of John Mano, who had trouble, it is said, with the two men in custody over the purchase of a candy store.

MANO'S MANAGER TALKS.

The information that caused the detectives to take the two Greeks into custody came from E. B. Goddard, who was formerly manager for Zacharia Mano, whose name was on the sack in which the torso was found.

Goddard told the detectives that Jack Mano had sold a candy store to the Greeks, and that they claimed he had concealed the fact that there was a mortgage on it. Goddard said that a few days ago a friend of the young men said:

"If Jack Mano does not settle I'll give these two boys (meaning the Greeks) money enough to follow him all around the world and settle it with him in another way."

McIvor and Manchester had a talk with the Greeks in the candy store last night, in which the latter admitted they had trouble with Jack Mano, and declared they would "like to catch him."

FIND NO BLOOD STAINS.

At the station house the two men were stripped and their clothing was carefully examined for blood stains, but none were found. They said they had changed their underclothing Sunday morning, and that which they had laid aside was in the basement of their store, where they slept.

The detectives returned to the store and ransacked it. They found plenty of soiled clothing, but the only stains that resembled blood proved upon closer examination to be chocolate from the soda fountain.

It was later learned that Jack Mano had a bracelet in India ink tattooed on one of his wrists. There is no such mark on either of the wrists of the murdered man. Furthermore, a relative of Mano declares that he is alive and well, and that he is simply keeping under cover to avoid legal difficulties with the men who bought out his candy business.

STILL HUNT FOR HEAD.

A small army of detectives and uniformed policemen in Greater New York are searching for the head severed from the body of the murdered man. His identity is still veiled in mystery and is likely to remain so until the head is found.

No murder since the Guldensuppe horror has so aroused the public and the police department as the butchery which is now under investigation. A house-to-house canvass has been made in the vicinity where the torso was found in a search for clues. Empty houses, vacant lots and freight yards have been scoured in a search for evidence.

All day yesterday and far into the night police launches were engaged in dragging the river in the hope that the grappling hooks would bring the missing head to the surface. Street sweepers and men employed on the public garbage dumps were ordered to co-operate with the police in their head-hunting expedition.

THIGHS ARE FOUND.

The upper portion of the murdered man's legs—all the parts of the body missing with the exception of the head—were found yesterday by Joseph Flynn, an employe of Burns Brothers, coal dealers, who have yards at the foot of West Thirty-eighth street.

Beneath a plank close to the excavation in which the torso was deposited a small boy yesterday found a knife which is believed to be the instrument which was used in dismembering the body. It was turned over to Patrolman Pritcherd, who was making a search in the vicinity. The blade measured nine inches in length and an inch in width, and was ground down to a razor-like sharpness.

It is what is known in the slaughter houses as a "dressing knife" and is commonly used in cutting up animals. On the wooden handle are three notches, which were evidently placed there by the owner to distinguish his own from other knives.

The point where the knife was found is less than fifty feet from the excavation into which the torso was thrown. The instrument was turned over to Police Inspector Walsh, who says that it confirms his theory that the murder was committed and the head and limbs amputated by some one who was experienced in cutting up animals.

1,000 HELD IN RACE WAR

All saloons and bars are being closed to-day as a precautionary measure.

SURROUND 1,500 NEGROES.

Fifteen hundred negroes are surrounded by the militia in Brownsville. A number of negroes are reported to have been killed this morning. A shot fired at a fleeing negro this morning entered the home of Joel Chandler Harris, on Gordon street, breaking a large plate glass in the door.

The city to-day is in a state of panic as a result of the aggressive stand taken by the negroes in the race riots. In the past few hours three known white men have been killed in the streets by the blacks, and five other whites, as yet unidentified, are also dead. Several desperate pitched battles have taken place between the black and whites during the night, and one policeman, mysteriously missing, is believed to have been seized.

The Seventeenth United States Infantry from Chickamauga is now encamped in the city. Colonel Van Orsdale, commanding the infantry, and Colonel Clifford Anderson of the State troops, have been in consultation. The latter has requested Colonel Van Orsdale to keep his soldiers ready for instant action.

NEGROES DRILL VOLUNTEERS.

Reports of pitched battles in the suburbs are reaching police headquarters almost every moment. In every case the negroes are the aggressors. They have secretly been drilling volunteer forces for twenty-four hours.

The city marshal of Edgewood was shot and wounded while trying to arrest a negro late yesterday.

Later reports from the encounter in South Atlanta show that it was a terrific battle, and that the death roll among the negroes is heavier than among the whites.

BOSTON NEGROES IN PROTEST, SAY HOKE SMITH IS TO BLAME

Resolutions condemning the killing and maiming of negroes in Atlanta were adopted by the Negro Baptist Ministers' Conference of Boston and vicinity at its meeting in St. Paul's Baptist Church yesterday. The resolutions say:

"We charge that much of the bloody riot was the answer to Hoke Smith's assertion that the negro race was the criminal class both North and South. The answer to this was the massacre of ten negroes and many wounded."

CHELSEA GRAFT CASE PROBED BY GRAND JURY

District-Attorney Moran Examining Witnesses in Corruption Charges.

The Chelsea graft case, one of the special matters which District Attorney John B. Moran is probing at the present special sitting of the Grand Jury, was taken up by the grand jurors to-day. The first witness called was Frank E. Winslow, superintendent of the Chelsea Board of Health. For fifteen minutes Mr. Winslow was examined by Mr. Moran and his assistant, Mr. Dennison. When he came out, Amos Kincaide, superintendent of public buildings in Chelsea, was called from among the witnesses in the corridor.

Mr Kincaide was in the Grand Jury room but a few minutes when he came out, and two women, witnesses in one of the routine cases, were called in. They remained but a short time, and then Kincaide was recalled.

At 11 o'clock Assistant Attorney Dennison was called from the Grand Jury to take up the case of "Dr." John Sinclair, whose case for causing the death of Annie Russell of Charlestown was halted because of the bribing of a juror. This left Mr. Moran to carry on the Chelsea case alone.

Among the witnesses in the Chelsea case who are yet to be called are City Clerk Charles H. Reed, City Treasurer Thomas B. Frost and the clerk of the overseers of the poor, Otis Barton.

Among the other cases which the District Attorney hopes to get at in this special session are the failure of the Provident Securities and Banking Company, the alleged bribery in the Crocker will case, bribery charges and corruption in the Legislature, the alleged padding of the payrolls in City Hall and the charges of alleged intimidation of voters by Mayor Fitzgerald made by Representative Kiley of Ward 8.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEAGUE PROVES A REVELATION

Special to the Boston American.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 25.—Yesterday's meeting of the Independence League of New Hampshire was a revelation even to the promoters of the work in New Hampshire. Most of the important cities and towns in the southern part of the State were represented by regularly appointed delegates, and there was an abundance of enthusiasm. One of the encouraging signs was the presence about the Hotel Lenox, while the meeting was being held, of one or two gentlemen of leisure, who are known hereabouts as "Boston & Maine" Democrats, who wanted to know what was going on. They seemed particularly anxious to find out just how many delegates had come to town. In order that no obstacle might be placed in their way, the visitors were careful to register.

The meeting was held in a parlor of the hotel and the feature of the occasion was an address on the Independence League and its work by E. Gerry Brown of Brockton, nominated on Saturday for the Lieutenant-Governorship by the Independence League of Massachusetts. As most of the delegates are identified with organized labor in New Hampshire, Mr. Brown was the hero of the day. Not less interesting was the talk of Mr. J. F. Davis, secretary of the League in Massachusetts, who gave the New Hampshire men some practical pointers on effective organization and how to achieve it.

A permanent organization was effected by the choice of these officers: President, George W. Griffiths of Portsmouth, prominent in the Central Labor Union of that city and in the State branch, American Federation of Labor; vice-president, Dorance B. Currier of Hanover, retired hotel man; secretary-treasurer, Elias A. McQuaid, Manchester; executive committee, Denis S. O'Leary, former president of the Central Labor Union of Manchester; P. J. McCabe, Portsmouth; John McLaughlin of Manchester, a member of the Federation's executive board, and Luther B. Sampson of Rochester, merchant; together with the officers already named.

The conference lasted for two hours, with an intermission for luncheon.

Perhaps the most important action of the day was the drafting of a memorial to to-day's Democratic State convention. Looking for a New Hampshire Democrat of gubernatorial size who does not ride on a Boston & Maine pass, the Independence Leaguers hit upon Mayor William E. Marvin of Portsmouth, who, long before there was any agitation about railroad passes in railroad-ridden New Hampshire, returned a pass that the corporation had sent him.

Up to almost the dawn of convention day it had seemed as if the gubernatorial nomination was going to Mayor Marvin without a contest. Late last night and early this morning, however, there was talk of a concerted effort to "stampede" the convention for Mayor Eugene E. Reed of Manchester. It was said that Mayor Reed was not seeking the nomination and that he had begged of his friends not to push it.

Reed is naturally the best known available Democrat in the State. He is "strong." If Mayor Marvin had dreamed of Reed's possible acceptance the Portsmouth man would long ago have stopped the use of his own name. Mr. Reed is a telegrapher by profession and was formerly in the employ of the railroad. Unless all signs fail, he would be likely to give Charles M. Floyd of Manchester a wonderful fight for the election.

Thanks.

MR. R. H. WHITE wishes to personally thank the thousands of his friends and customers who have to-day responded so liberally and in such overwhelming numbers to his

THIS MAN, ABOUT TO DIE, TOOK FATHER JOHN'S

The Medicine Cured His Cough and Built Up His Strength Again.

Here is another letter, picked from the many that are coming to Lowell without solicitation, in praise of Father John's Medicine:

"Out of gratitude for what Father John's Medicine has done for me, I wish to add mine to the large volume of testimony in praise of this old prescription.

"For six months I was unable to work, and got only temporary relief. I had almost given up to die when a friend told me to take Father John's Medicine.

"With no hope that it could benefit me, I began taking the medicine. Very soon I began to improve, and after taking four bottles I did not cough at all, and it has finally overcome my trouble. I recommend it to everybody." (Signed) W. G. Shumberger, 2018 Elizabeth avenue, Harrisburg, Pa.

Father John's Medicine cures colds and all throat and lung troubles and restores health and strength to run-down systems.

It contains no nerve-deadening drugs or weakening stimulants upon which so many patent medicines depend for their effect, and which are dangerous.

WED IN SECRET, PAIR COULDN'T HELP TELLING

CEREMONY LAST FRIDAY

LYNN, Sept. 25.—Marriage and secrecy were a combination that Mr. and Mrs. Leon H. Baxter, who have been married since last Friday, could stand no longer than three days, for which reason their parents and friends were greatly surprised to learn yesterday of the nuptials that had taken place last week. Mrs. Baxter was on Friday last Miss Mildred J. Briggs, a graduate of the High School and a popular leader among the younger social set.

On the evening of that day she and Baxter left to take part in a surprise party. They visited the home of the Rev. Hazel Conklin, pastor of the Second Universalist Church, where they were married. Then the train for the real surprise party was laid, for each of the pair returned to his and her own home. At last the stress of secrecy became too involved and publication of the marriage followed.

BREAKS COMRADE'S HEAD AND VANISHES

As a result of a dispute between Peter Huddlington of Essex street, Melrose, and a fellow workman, Huddlington was taken to the Melrose Hospital to-day, where a bad wound at the base of the skull was dressed.

A carpenter struck Huddlington with a hammer and fled. Huddlington will be unable to work for some time. The men were employed on a house at Emerson street and Lake avenue, Melrose.

DOCTORS OF WORLD GREET HARVARD TODAY

Fine New Medical School Building Ceremoniously Dedicated.

COST WAS $5,000,000

Harvard's new $5,000,000 medical school is dedicated this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Doctors from all parts of the world join with Harvard in rejoicing over the new home of medical science. The president, fellows, overseers, faculties and officers meet the delegates from other institutions and other specially invited guests at 1:45 p. m. in the Administration Building. They assemble on the terrace, where the speaking takes place. The other guests and alumni of the medical school assemble on the lawn in front of the Administration building. The corporation accepts the buildings, which will be formally dedicated by the president and then opened for inspection.

The program of the dedication is as follows: Prayer, George Angier Gordon, D. D.; "The Enlarged Foundation," John Collins Warren, M. D., LL. D., F. R. C. S.; "The Buildings," Charles Allerton Coolidge, A. B., representing the architects; "Acceptance of the Buildings," president of the university; "The Faculty of Medicine," the dean; "The Laboratories," Thomas Dwight, M. D., LL. D., Parkman professor of anatomy; "The Clinics," Frederick Cheever Shattuck, M. D., Jackson professor of clinical medicine; "Dedication of the Buildings," president of the university; benediction.

Among the different congratulatory messages the new medical school is in receipt of a vellum parchment, written in French, which extends the hearty congratulations of the medical school in Liege, France.

APPOINT TRUANT OFFICERS.

MONTH'S TREATMENT FREE

Including All Medicine, Given to All Patients Applying at the Offices of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians, 18 Boylston street, on or Before Sept. 30. There will be No Charge for Consultation, or the Most Careful Examination With the X-Ray.

The Osmo-Chemic Physicians, the great scientists, in order to demonstrate their skill in the cure of Chronic Diseases by their New Discovery, will give to all patients who apply for treatment before Sept. 30th one month's treatment, including all medicines, ABSOLUTELY FREE. This liberal offer will bring the cost of a course of treatment sufficient to cure the most obstinate, curable chronic disease within the reach of all. Anyone, no matter what their disease, can avail themselves of this liberal offer. It is limited only as to time. It is clear that such an offer cannot be continued indefinitely. Therefore the offer has been limited to the remaining days of September.

Do not wait if you are suffering from any disease whatever. Call on the Osmo-Chemic Physicians and they will examine you carefully with their big "X-Ray" free of charge, and if your case is curable and you begin a course of treatment before Sept. 30th, they will treat you and furnish you with one month's treatment, including all medicines, absolutely free of charge.

Out of town people are not waiting, they are coming on every train from the country and neighboring towns to be cured by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians. A cure is guaranteed in every case.

LEUCODESCENT RAYS

What the Leucodescent rays do:

(1) The "Leucodescent" Rays not only increase the nutrition of living animal cells, thus promoting tissue-metabolism, but they are a powerful destroyer of germ life—bacteria, etc.

(2) It is the only therapeutic light that can be used with certainty of results and absolute safety in its application.

(3) That it is a pain reliever by its intense, vibratory, rhythm-restoring force upon the nerve cell.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Many Prominent Citizens Testify to the Merit of the New Leucodescent Light Treatment of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians.

Mrs. Nelson Lowe, R. F. D., Walpole, Mass., a well-known and highly respected lady, who suffered from bladder and kidney disease, writes the following: "I am very grateful to the Osmo-Chemic physicians for what they have done for me. I feel that I have been cured. When I first came to your office I was hardly able to get there, now I am able to do the work for a family of eight and care for 100 hens, 100 chicks, and 75 ducks. The doctor and attendants were very kind to me."

Mrs. Emma Card, well and favorably known in Merrimac, Mass., where she resides, had suffered from what a doctor in Haverhill diagnosed as a fibroid uterine tumor, bladder troubles and stomach catarrh, says: "I had decided to be operated upon at the hospital when a friend whom the Osmo-Chemic physicians had treated successfully advised me to consult them. I did so and their new light treatment was so successful that I now find an operation unnecessary."

Mrs. Anna Chapman, wife of Eben S. Chapman, the well-known farmer, who resides at 297 Main st., Reading, Mass., says: "I had been suffering from kidney and stomach trouble since childhood of late years, and the kidney disease had reached the dignity of incipient Bright's Disease. Nothing benefited me until I was treated with the new light treatment of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians; now I am so well that I do not require medical treatment."

Melville A. Stone, superintendent of public schools, Reading, Mass., says: "I feel wholly restored to health. My ailment was poor digestion."

E. R. Forbush, prominent jeweller of Lisbon, N. H., says: "I found the Leucodescent Rays a wonderful treatment, marvellous in its results."

Mr. Wm. McConnell, well-known real estate agent, 170 Summer st., Boston, Mass., says: "I am thankful that the Osmo-Chemic physicians' new light treatment cured me of Rheumatism and Catarrh."

Mrs. Elsie Tobey, 173 Charles st., Boston, Mass., wife of the well-known artist, Louis Tobey, says: "It cured me of blood poisoning."

Mrs. Edward Reed, 7 Cherry st., Salem, Mass., wife of the well-known furniture broker, 23 Sudbury st., Boston, Mass., says: "I was saved from a surgical operation by the new light treatment."

Mrs. Jessie Benton, 52 Pond st., Natick, Mass., wife of the well-known barber, whose shop is located at 23 Washington st., Natick, says: "The new light treatment cured me two years ago."

Miss Emily Davis, 1 Davis st., Marlboro, Mass., says: "The new light treatment of the Osmo-Chemic physicians cured my mother of deafness, my sister of female disease and myself of stomach disease."

Mrs. Amelia Johnson, 822 Main st., Brockton, Mass., wife of the well-known painter and paperhanger, says: "The new light treatment cured me of chronic peritonitis."

CONGRESSMAN M'NARY DECLARES FOR LOGAN

Legislative experience is the most valuable possession of a member of Congress. Oratory, no matter how attractive on the stump, is of little use at the capitol. Most of the work of Congress, work that brings results and makes a member's service of use to his constituents, is done in committees. A member without previous legislative experience cannot achieve these results or give this service. Of the principal candidates for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Tenth District, Mr. Logan is alone possessed of this legislative experience. Therefore he is the one who would best serve the people of the district. Consequently, I, mindful of the compliment paid me by the votes of the people of the Tenth District, and knowing the needs of the district and the improvements contemplated for it, have no hesitancy in declaring Edward L. Logan, the candidate alone qualified to give the people of the Tenth District the best service at Washington.

I shall vote for Edward L. Logan.

Callahan says: "We were slow, but now that we have our eyes fully open we are out for a big branch. We need and we are going to have honest politics and honest candidates. We thought the convention would be run off in straight apple-pie order. We are pleased at its success. Our sleeves are now rolled up and we have pitched in to work. It is coming easy and we only want the Commonwealth to watch us grow."

Secretary George LeCon said: "I am so well pleased at the tremendous success of Saturday's convention that I am now out to make the Ward 16 branch one of the strongest in the city. We are meeting with success. Men who in the past have been strong Republicans and Democrats are coming to us and asking for membership. I tell you that we needed such a movement years ago. Now that it has come, the people will wake up to it. I can't find one sensible argument against the League. Arguments made are by decidedly ignorant speechmakers. Everyone of the principles involves honesty, and it is only graft mongers and trusts that try and oppose us, with their money and present power. This has got to be broken—the quicker the better. The people have their eyes open to the truth that the Government belongs to them and they now have the opportunity, through the Independence League, of getting back the control they lost."

LEAGUERS STRONG FOR TRUST FIGHTER

Special to the Boston American.

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 25.—The nomination of Thomas L. Hisgen for State Auditor on the Independence League ticket has met with much favor in Springfield and western Massachusetts. Many prominent Democrats have also expressed a hope that he will be placed on the Democratic ticket for the same office. Mr. Hisgen, in his fight for the last five years against the Standard Oil Company, has gained the confidence and good will of the people, and labor leaders and politicians alike say he is the strongest man who could be placed on the ticket. One prominent Republican said last night:

"I wish Mr. Hisgen was a Republican, for he has proved a fighter who can win against odds and his name would be a help to any ticket." Mr. Hisgen is known in the western part of the State almost as well as in this city, and he stands strong in Westfield, Pittsfield, and in fact, all through Berkshire, Franklin, Hampden and Hampshire counties.

George W. Curtis, a prominent Democratic labor leader, said: "A stronger man could not be found than Thomas L. Hisgen and I will give my reasons: First, he has not been prominent in politics and has no enemies; second, he is a clean business man who has made a success against heavy odds; third, he has the sympathy of the public, for he refused to sell out to the Standard Oil Company in spite of a big offer by the trust. Instead he has benefited the poor people by keeping down the price of oil.

"People Believe in Him."

"When put to the test and the Standard Oil Company cut under him in price the people stood by Mr. Hisgen and so they will in politics. He is well known in business and has been prominently before the public. He is a modest man and one of much ability. Yes, I am sure the right man has been chosen."

Richard A. Hennessey, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Senator and is one of the best known labor men in the city, said: "A stronger man than Thomas L. Hisgen could not be put on the ticket. He has kept the people of western Massachusetts out of the clutches of the greatest trust in America—the Standard Oil Trust and the people have confidence in him. He has recently made a great fight against the trust in Pittsfield and won out, and so it has been all through this part of the State. He is a good, clean-cut fellow and will get votes irrespective of party. Another strong man on the ticket is E. Gerry Brown. We had an opportunity to meet him here when the Independence League was formed. He is the friend of the laboring man and the working men of western Massachusetts appreciate the fact."

"Will Strengthen Ticket."

Herbert E. Bryant, known throughout the State in labor circles, said: "I have not been in Springfield long, but from what I know of Mr. Hisgen he will strengthen the ticket. He has the public with him, which means much. As to E. Gerry Brown, why, I nominated him at the convention, and I can only repeat what I said then. He has been on the State ticket several times, and also ran for Mayor of Brockton. Although defeated, he is not one of the kind easily discouraged but keeps fighting, and that is the kind of men we want. I find he is well thought of in western Massachusetts and well known in this section. He deserves some recognition for his past efforts in behalf of the labor men and I know they will stand by him."

Councilman William H. Grady, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative and the most prominent labor man in the city, said: "By putting up such men as Thomas L. Hisgen the Republicans will be made to hustle. One of the principal objects of the Independence League is to fight monopolies and this is just what Mr. Hisgen has been doing for a number of years. He has been fighting the Standard Oil Company and has won out against it almost single-handed.

"The Right Kind of Man."

"That is the kind of a man we like to see in politics. Not only is he known in western Massachusetts, but his fame has been spreading to the eastern part of the State. In putting E. Gerry Brown's name on the ticket another good move has been made. He stands well with the laboring men all over the State and they are going to prove a factor in the State elections."

An employe of the United States armory, who did not wish his name used, said: "Republicans, Democrats and Socialists at the armory are out for Mr. Hisgen. They have all been buying his oil and helping him to fight the trust, and now they will stand by him in his political fight."

Mr. Hisgen's fight against the Standard Oil Company has been carried on in this city, Holyoke, Chicopee, Westfield, Pittsfield, Northampton and numerous other towns in this section. In all of these places he has gained the good will of the people irrespective of party.

TWENTY MORE JOIN NEEDHAM BRANCH OF THE LEAGUE

NEEDHAM, Sept. 25.—Twenty new members were added to the roll of the Needham Independence League at a rousing rally in Grand Army Hall last evening. President Sanford F. Keith presided and introduced the speakers of the evening, Charles O. Power and Clement L. Pollock of Boston.

Messrs. Power and Pollock both spoke in a general way of the objects of the league, Mr. Power devoting himself more especially to the influence he believed the league would have on State legislation and legislators.

Many of those who came forward to sign the membership roll have hitherto been active in the Democratic and Republican parties respectively.

The officers of the local league are: Sanford F. Keith, president; William B. Sadler and Thomas E. Wye, vice-presidents; Irving R. Stowell, secretary, and William F. Brennan, treasurer.

DOUBLE LEGAL STAMPS ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

Milk of Human Kindness, Theory of Klein's Drama

"Ladies and Gentlemen, all I can say is: I thank you. I thank you." This was the response of Charles Klein, author of "The Daughters of Men," which had its initial metropolitan production at the Colonial Theatre last night, to the fourteenth call of the curtain of the second act. To the thirteenth and twelfth calls, he simply bowed to the company, the whole company which had assembled on the stage, as an acknowledgment of debt to them for their aid in making this new "problem" play an instantaneous success.

The word "problem" is not used in the sense that "sex against sex" was used in "Sowing the Wind," but rather with the idea of a great question which has stirred the world from its very foundation and which will continue so to do until the very end of time. It is the great problem of the day—that which has for its equations, capital and labor.

Question Is One of Morals.

Said Mr. Klein to the BOSTON AMERICAN last night: "The question of labor and capital is not one of economics, but of morals. I have simply tried to show that the question cannot be settled by legislation. You can't make an employer love a workingman or a laborer love the man who employs him unless there is the milk of human kindness in each. That's the whole problem in my mind. The text from Holy Writ: 'Love one another,' is the only answer."

But while from an economic standpoint the play might be unsatisfactory as an answer to the question, as a dramatic entertainment, aye, more than that, as a sermon on the stage, from which each listener obtains a word to the wise, success can be spelled with capitals.

Mr. Klein has filled the play full of epigrams, pleasing alike to the man of wealth and the man who makes his wealth. The audience at the Colonial was either composed of many of both classes or was particularly fair, for each point in the play was unusually well received.

Has a Wonderful Cast.

Orrin J. Johnson, Herbert Kelcey, Ralph Delmore, Lynn Pratt, Carl Ahrendt, Effie Shannon, Dorothy Donnelly, Grace Filkins! These are names really to conjure with when "The Daughter of Men" is mentioned. And the others, and there are others, were of equal importance and prominence in making the whole a perfect unit. Seldom if ever have Boston theatregoers seen a better balanced company; there were lines and business for each and every one and each and every one was comme il faut.

Orrin Johnson was the lead—and such a lead. It was not until the third act that he had his real opportunity. And maybe he did not rise to it! Great, Mr. Johnson. Not exaggerated (it might have been destroying scenery if you had not shown your real intensity and earnestness), but just what the man John Stedman felt. You had measured the distance, you had led your company with a perfect stride; when the climax came, or at least your climax, you were in perfect condition to march over the battlement of criticism. Manly and earnest and sincere, there was nothing lacking in the performance of the man with whom Miss Crosby fell in love.

Effie Shannon a Hit.

And Miss Crosby. Her professional name is Miss Effie Shannon. We have seen Miss Shannon in several, yes, many parts, but none suited her; in none was she better than in the role which Mr. Klein wrote, apparently, for her. But Miss Dorothy Donnelly evenly divided honors with her. Convincing, temperamental, without a fault, never overdoing, never underdoing, Miss Donnelly as Louise Stolbeck was all that could possibly be desired.

Herbert Kelcey is seen in an old man part, but he made much of it, while George Parsons, in an eccentric character (somewhat reminding one of George Arliss in "Leah Kleschna") and Lynn Pratt were among the other leaders.

The most unsatisfactory part written by Mr. Klein—that is, unsatisfactory in that it has at no time the sympathy of the audience—was that taken by Grace Filkins, but she did it so well that you had to take notice of the artistic manner in which she performed.

"BUMPTY BUMPS" HIT THE ORPHEUM

That old saying from Shakespeare, "What's in a name," comes forcibly to mind as one witnesses the vaudeville at the Orpheum Theatre this week. What are supposedly the star acts prove to be reflected lights. John W. Ransone, who has gained a big reputation from starring in "Prince of Pilsen" as Hans Wagner, and from his monologues, appears as William Jennings Bryan. He is made up well and all that, but his line of talk is poor and he fails to make the looked for hit.

George K. Fortesque, as big as life, entertained with "My Six Little Wives." His chief stunt is singing the song which he sang several years ago in the San Toy production and it did not send the audience into ecstacies.

There are many good things on the bill this week, however. Rice and Prevost's act (they are second to none in the tumbling business) is the piece de resistance. Another big thing is the one-act play, "The Futurity Winner." This is a fast-moving drama of the race track in two scenes, the second disclosing the finish of the race. The plot devolves upon the winning of the great handicap by Tom Chambers, recently removed from the track for crooked riding, despite the efforts of Wright Tarvin to keep him out of the race. The star of the piece is Taylor Granville as the blacklisted jockey, and he won deserved applause.

BOWERY SCENES AT BOWDOIN SQ.

Once more does Charlotte Hunt delve into a character role at the Bowdoin Square Theatre this week, and as the Bowery Newsgirl in the melodrama of the same name she increases her hold upon success. Plots for death, thrilling rescues, scenes in the slums and clever character acting abound in this play.

"MUSIC MASTER" STARTS A BOOM

No person may buy more than six seats for "The Music Master," which opens at the Majestic Theatre, and no orders for seats will be taken by telephone. This is necessary because of the enormous demand for seats. There was a long-unbroken line at the box office all day yesterday. Mr. Warfield is to give but one matinee each week, and that will be on Saturday. He comes to Boston direct from his long run in New York.

LIMBLESS MAN SHAVES HIMSELF

Randion, the armless and legless wonder, at Austin & Stone's Museum gave the patrons another jar yesterday when he proceeded to shave himself with ease, using the razor with his mouth. Besides shaving himself Randion sometimes cuts his hair, also by using his mouth to manipulate the scissors. He threaded a needle, sharpened a knife, rolled a cigarette and had a game of marbles. This is the last week of his engagement.

LIFE ON BOWERY SEEN AT PALACE

Bowery burlesquers at the Palace Theatre this week are a departure from anything given thus far this season by the travelling companies. The first vehicle is a funny burlesque entitled "On the Bowery;" the second gives gay scenes in the artist's studio, and the closing act is a travesty on the Old Essex Market Police Court.

"DOPEY DAN" AT COLUMBIA THEATRE

"Dopey Dan" and his fair companions of the Star Show Girls at the Columbia yesterday gave a most enjoyable entertainment in extravaganza. Fun and music are the chief ingredients of their merry concoction. Charles Nichols and John Baker, are as funny a pair as ever set their feet on the Columbia stage and hand out some choice jokes.

NORUMBEGA STILL OPEN.

Norumbega Park remains open so that patrons may still enjoy the canoeing and boating trips up the river in the naphtha launches and may visit the zoological gardens.

For Woman's Eye

The emollient, sanative, antiseptic, cleansing, purifying, and beautifying properties of CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA OINTMENT render them of priceless value to women, especially mothers.

'SECRETS OF POLICE' FULL OF ACTION

"Secrets of the Police," a melodrama of the sensational detective style, drew an immense audience to the Grand Opera House last evening, and pleased every one in the audience. It deals with criminal life in New York and St. Petersburg, and has fourteen scenes. Albert McGovern played the role of the young American detective, and it seemed as if the part had been created especially for him. Elizabeth Rathbourne has the chief female role, that of the English heiress, and she plays it with good taste.

CLEVER BURLETTAS IN LYCEUM SHOW

The Greater New York stars, in a burletta, entitled "Turn Him Out," started the fun at the Lyceum yesterday. Fanny Everett was the main feature. Williams and Dawson open the olio with parodies; the Sidonas follow in "The Tramp and the Golf Girls." Then come the Pan American Quartette; Maryland Tyson and Lottie Hoover and eight dancing girls; the Buck Brothers, acrobatic act, and the Busch-Devere Trio. "The Swell Set in Paris" is the closing skit, which is full of music and dances.

TOY SOLDIER SUPPLIES HIT IN KEITH BILL

Keith's Theatre programme this week is typical of Boston's first vaudeville house and is well calculated to please. Foremost on the bill is Fred Walton, a pantomimist of the new school. Walton has mounted his act elaborately, and he has a supporting company of four good performers. It's playlet, called "Cissie's Dream," is a real novelty. Walton impersonates a wooden toy soldier and comes in on a rolling truck.

Sharing the honors with Walton are Cressey and Dayne, and they are putting on their familiar sketch, "Town Hall To Night." It's a great little show all in itself, and probably no one in the house enjoys the play any more than Will Cressey himself.

Cressey has a new joke, too. As the leading lady in the show Miss Dayne finds that there is no hotel at which she may stop. Turning to Mr. Cressey, who is the whole thing in the little town, she says:

"Oh, where shall I sleep to-night?"

"You might stay with the ticket agent."

"Sir-r-r-r, I'll have you understand I'm a lady."

"Huh," grunts Cressey, "so's the ticket agent."

The rest of the Keith bill is made up of bright, entertaining numbers and will please the critical or the easily amused.

FOUR GREAT PLAYS CONTINUE THIS WEEK

"Rip Van Winkle"

Thomas Jefferson plays "Rip Van Winkle" only through this week at the Boston Theatre, and so far his experiment with his father's old play and old part had been unexpectedly successful. Joseph Jefferson, toward the end of his career, acted seldom in the larger cities, and the younger playgoers there hardly knew the piece except as a noted name.

"Sergeant Brue"

It was a laughing night for all inside the Hollis Street Theatre last evening when Frank Daniels began the second and last week of his stay here in "Sergeant Brue." The fun of this comic opera will long be remembered, for it is one of the jolliest works that England has ever sent to America. The central figure is especially interesting, the English policeman, who is bound to secure promotion or lose a large legacy falling to his share.

"Lion and the Mouse"

Lions and mice made good entertainment for the large audience at the Park Theatre last evening, when the fourth week of the engagement in Boston of "The Lion and the Mouse" opened most auspiciously. In reality the performance was of more importance than the opening of the fourth week, for it must be taken into consideration that this same piece ran here for four weeks last season, closing its engagement at a time when the capacity of the house was tested at all performances.

"The Press Agent"

"The Press Agent," with Peter F. Dailey in the leading role, began its second and last week at the Majestic Theatre last night. This is one of the best musical plays which has visited Boston in recent years, a fact which is emphasized by the exceptional company. The play tells a consistent story, without interruption from specialties, as is so often the case, and in the course of the evening there are musical numbers of more than ordinary interest.

Daly Again Gives Treat In Three One-Act Plays

Arnold Daly has someh[illegible] the habit of giving his Bo[illegible] a treat, it seems, for this [illegible] week he has done it, and each [illegible] treat seems more pleasant than [illegible].

Last evening at the Tr[illegible] Mr. Daly put on a triple bill of one[illegible] "The Flag Station," by Charles [illegible] "How He Lied to Her Husband," [illegible] Bernard Shaw, and "The Monkey's P[illegible]" by W. W. Jacobs. Three scenes mo[illegible] requiring more varied acting [illegible] hardly be imagined. The first is [illegible] station on the Selkirk mo[illegible] on the Canadian Pacific road, during a raging blizzard. Dick Anderson (Mr. Daly) is the telegraph operator, and [illegible] wife (Chrystal Herne) are the [illegible]. Mr. Daly has rarely done a [illegible] piece of acting than in this one-act sketch, and Miss Herne is a close second.

Then comes "How He Lied to Her Husband," quite a change from a dingy station to a brilliant drawing room. This is Mr. Daly's best sketch. It was written for him by Mr. Shaw, and intended as an afterpiece to "Candida." As the poetic youth, in love with another man's wife, and afflicted with growing pains when his poems to her fall into the husband's hands, Mr. Daly is sincere and convincing, clever and able. Isabelle Urquhart as the wife with whom three presidents danced, and were proud of it, and whom no man can resist, was delicious.

The final act was "The Monkey's Paw," a gruesome tragedy which brings the shudders, but, oh! so wonderfully enacted. In this, however, Mr. Daly is not "the whole thing." John Findlay has a capital role as the old sergeant-major, and Miss Herne that of Mrs. White, Mr. Daly playing Mr. White. All three have capital make-ups, completely sinking their own identity. In fact, one person in the audience was overheard to ask, after having seen Mr. Daly in the other two pieces—"Which is Mr. Daly?"

"WOMAN IN CASE" IS STIMULATING

Appearing as a star in "The Woman in the Case," Eugenie Blair was welcomed to the Globe Theatre last night by a large audience. The house obviously approved of the play and the players, for the applause was frequent and hearty, and after "the" scene, Miss Blair was given seven curtain calls.

The Clyde Fitch drama sets forth the story of a wife who voluntarily associates with persons of the night life in order to wring from "the woman in the case" the secret which will exonerate her husband, who is under arrest on the charge of murder. Miss Blair interpreted the lines of the wife with all the intensity that Fitch evidently intended they should be rendered. The play is of the rather violent type, and there was made slight effort by the players to put on the soft pedal. As a result, every auditor got a thorough rousing up. "The Woman in the Case" is certainly a stimulating play, and Miss Blair and her company play it in a stimulating way.

JOLLIEST FARCE PLAYED AT BIJOU

John Craig's stock company began its fourteenth week of unusually good work by playing Broadhurst's jolliest farce, "Why Smith Left Home," at the Bijou yesterday. No play in their series has given the audiences such enjoyment, and the laughs come in waves at intervals of about a minute. There are a number of new things in it of interest. Mary Young, in the role of Mrs. Smith, enters into the work with spirit, and the dainty little dance she gives is reminiscent of earlier days, and emphasizes her rapidly developing versatility. Mr. Craig's facial expressions, particularly, were of the most amusing nature, and he was natural in everything he did.

Kate Ryan, as the cook, has a part that fits her to a "T," and Miss MacDonald and Mr. MacLarnie, as the newly married couple, furnish lots of amusement. Mabel Colcord has an excellent part, and John Beck, with his twisted English, is convulsingly amusing. A new member of the company, that is, new in a speaking role, is Florence Russell, and she shows herself to be a clever maid.

THE ONLY TEA That is absolutely free from dust, dirt and all foreign mixture is

"SALADA"

CEYLON AND INDIA TEA.

The Purest Tea on the Market

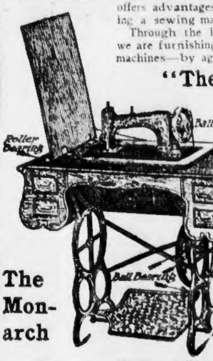
"GISMONDA" A BIG SURPRISE

Sardou's powerful tragedy, "Gismonda," bids fair to prove one of the most popular offerings of the season at the Castle Square, if last night's reception of the play is any criterion.

"Gismonda" is given for the first time in ten years in Boston, and for the first time ever by a stock company. Written especially for Sarah Bernhardt, the tragedy is essentially a one-woman play, and the character of the haughty duchess gives Miss Thais Lawton abundant opportunity for a display of her rare ability. Difficult as is the leading role, and intricate and elaborate as is the play in its entirety, the Castle Square Company proved itself commandingly adequate for a most finished presentation of "Gismonda."

A "NIFTY" BILL IS THE HOWARD'S

"All to the Nifty" is the title of the burlesquers' offering at the Old Howard this week, and it applies to the entire bill as well. The new costumes of the girls are stunners. Dairia, the Brazilian dancer, continues this week, and the other features are Esmael, Devoe and company in "The Saintly Mr. Billings," Murphy and Willard in "The Phrenologist," Arthur Whitelaw in a great monologue, the Pelots, comedy jugglers; Charles and Jack Ahearn in cycling tricks; Hebert and Rogers, wooden shoe dancers; Jennings and Renfrew, Vadding and Davis and the Knox Brothers, musical comedians. There are a number of new films in the Howardscope.



HENRY SIEGEL CO.

The Henry Siegel Co. Sewing Machine Club offers advantages altogether new to those needing a sewing machine.

Through the helpfulness of our club plan we are furnishing one of the country's greatest machines—by agreement calling it to protect the maker's general business.

"The Monarch"

This machine has been sold by agents at prices running from $40.00 to $60.00.

Club members pay us $23.75.

$2.00 at joining — we then deliver your machine as promptly as we can; say in four or five days. You pay the remaining $21.75 in driblets of $1.00 a week. No interest or extras.

The Monarch

The proposition is so popular that we are not apt to have enough machines to go around.

SWEETHEART
TOILET SOAP
SWEETHEART TOILET SOAP

Is a toilet soap of the highest quality. It is made from the choicest edible tallow combined with vegetable oils, GLYCERINE, COLD CREAM, and BENZOIN in sufficient quantity to cause the soap to lather very freely in any water and at the same time have a soothing and healing effect on the most delicate skin. When you buy Sweetheart Soap you get soap only for your money, and not fancy boxes and wrappers.. In order that a cake may reach most every home in New England, we have decided to publish coupons in the BOSTON AMERICAN to the number of One Million. These coupons can be redeemed at nearly every retail store where soap is sold. The retail merchant makes a reasonable profit on every cake he gives away for the AMERICAN coupon. Wholesale dealers in all towns in New England keep Sweetheart Soap in stock and will also redeem the coupons from the retailer. If your retail dealer WISHES TO PLEASE YOU he can easily supply you with Sweetheart Soap unless he is pushing the sale of some other kind which pays him a big profit. The honest dealer will hand you Sweetheart Soap without any questions.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES COUNCIL UNION LABEL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Trade was never as brisk and the demand for union men never so great as now, it was reported at last night's meeting of Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 17. The following committee was appointed to arrange for the annual ball in December: Edward F. X. McCarthy, chairman; Matthew Walsh, Edward Hennessey, Bert Leavitt, James Moriarty, Joseph Moran, P. J. Hickey, Hobbs Doyle, John Selfridge and Louis Harrington. A special meeting of the union will be held next Monday night to complete arrangements for the ball. Business Agent John F. Kennedy, who is on a two weeks' vacation in Baltimore, will resume his duties on Saturday. All idle metal ceiling men are requested to report to Acting Business Agent John Hynes, No. 994 Washington street, any morning at 8 o'clock.

WAGE EARNERS' CLUBS BUSY.

John J. O'Hare, of the executive board of the Wage Earners' Central Club, has been authorized to form a club in Ward 4, and a meeting for that purpose will be held Thursday night at 8 o'clock at No. 253 Bunker Hill street.

Ward 25 Wage Earners' Club holds a mass meeting next Friday night in Red Men's Hall, Washington street, Brighton. Among the speakers will be President John E. Potts and Thomas M. Nolan, President of the Somerville Wage Earners' Club; Secretary-Treasurer D. D. Driscoll of the State Branch, A. F. of L., L. W. E. Kimball of Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 and M. J. Birmingham of Electrical Workers' Union No. 104.

STABLEMEN TO MEET.

An open meeting of union and non-union stablemen of the West End and Charlestown will be held to-night at 8 o'clock at No. 164 Canal street. Among the speakers will be Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the A. F. of L.; Dennis D. Driscoll, secretary-treasurer of the State Branch, A. F. of L., and Philip H. Sweet, financial secretary of the Central Labor Union.

LABOR NOTES.

Bricklayers' Union No. 3 donated $10 to the striking goldbeaters at last night's meeting.

John H. Spencer was installed as business agent of Waiters' Union No. 80 yesterday to fill out the unexpired term of John T. Gorman, who has resigned.

Boston Pattern Makers' Association elect officers to-morrow night. Business Agent S. M. Lent, who is also New England organizer, will address the Worcester local to-night.

A birthday party and dance for the benefit of Elmer E. Norris, the popular janitor at No. 724 Washington street, will be held to-night in Phenix Hall.

Lumber Teamsters' Union No. 112 received the report of its arbitration board last night and indorsed the action of Business Agent Donoghue regarding the Healy job in Dorchester. Ten new candidates were initiated.

After to-morrow night's meeting of Printing Pressmen's Union No. 67 in Elks' Hall a smoke talk will be held. The union, it is reported, is making good progress toward perfecting the organization for the eight-hour day.

NEW CAPS FOR TUFTS FRESHIES

Sometime during the midnight hour tonight the annual rush will be held at Tufts College campus, the object of which is for the sophomores to prevent the freshmen from flying their flag. If the latter are successful in doing this and keeping it waving to the breeze until chapel time Wednesday morning they will be allowed to fly it on the campus at their class receptions during the coming year.

Everyone is awaiting to-day for the caps that the freshmen are to wear during the coming year to be put on sale. The caps are to be brown with a green button, and it is proposed that no freshman shall be allowed to remain in peace until he has not only purchased the cap, but also wears it about on all occasions.

CRUISER AFTER 42 CHINAMEN

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 25.—The colonial cruiser Neptune is in quest of an American yacht, claiming to hail from New York, it being charged that an attempt is being made to smuggle forty-two Chinamen into Canadian or American ports. The Neptune has been ordered to seize the yacht.

FIVE KILLED, 15 INJURED.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 25.—Five persons were killed and fifteen or more injured in a rear-end collision yesterday in the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad yards at Prague, Minn.

OVERTURNED STOVE; YOUNG MOTHER DEAD

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Edith Mort, twenty years old, was frightfully burned yesterday by the accidental overturning of an oil stove in her home, No. 36 Sherry street. She died at the hospital. She leaves a child four weeks old and a husband, John Mort.

Wage Earners, Attention!

Read This Carefully, Reflect Upon It, and at the Caucus To-night Vote for

Congressman Ernest W. Roberts

He has received the following endorsements from individuals and organizations connected with the ranks of organized labor, wholly without solicitation on his part:

STUART REID, Organizer of the American Federation of Labor, says:

"In Congress we have many misrepresentatives of the people, but Congressman Roberts is certainly not one of them. It was my privilege to be in Washington throughout the last term of Congress, and on many occasions I found it necessary to attend sessions of the House on business matters. I often experienced great difficulty in finding Congressmen from many of the districts, but I always found Congressman Roberts at his post, ready to accommodate not only his own constituents but others who desired his assistance on matters pertaining to labor.

"The Congressman is known in Washington as one of the most diligent members of the House, and while he is seldom found in the limelight, his work on matters affecting his district is most effective.

"Too much credit cannot be given to the Congressman for his work on the denatured alcohol bill. He worked night and day to secure its passage, and while it is true that he was not prominent in the arguments presented on the floor in its behalf, it is an acknowledged fact that he was one of the greatest factors in securing its passage. I speak from personal knowledge when I say that he was one of the greatest factors in the passage of the bill.

"On one occasion I sat in the gallery as the House sat as a Committee of the Whole. Representatives of the corporations carried everything with a whoop, and when the Committee arose the chain shop of the Charlestown Navy Yard had been legislated out of business. This meant the closing of the chain shop of the Charlestown Navy Yard, the discharge of a large number of well-paid union blacksmiths working eight hours a day, and a great financial loss to this district.

"Agents of the corporations were exceedingly busy and were in high glee over the success of the Committee of the Whole, but Congressman Roberts turned the trick on them. He immediately got to work among the members and when the bill came before the House he won a brilliant victory to the complete discomfiture of the corporations. The chain shop is still in Charlestown, and the corporations were thoroughly thrashed.

"This case is simply one of the many in which Congressman Roberts has not only prevented the taking away of desirable industries in this district, but has succeeded in thwarting the designs of the corporations to prevent him from benefiting his constituents. This must be said of Congressman Roberts. He is always at his post."

J. D. COWPER, General Organizer, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, under date of September 14th, 1906, addressed the following open letter to organized labor:

To all Organized Labor,

Greeting:—I trust all members of organized labor living in the 7th Congressional District of Massachusetts will attend the caucuses Tuesday, Sept. 25th, 1906, and cast their ballot for a tried and true friend of organized labor, as the past record of Hon. E. W. Roberts will prove. In making this endorsement of Hon. E. W. Roberts I do it for the best interests of organized labor, as we have none too many friends in the Halls of Congress. Fraternally yours, (Signed) J. D. COWPER.

The Following Organizations Have Honored Congressman Roberts With Their Endorsements, Under Seal:

Machinists' Union 471, Lynn.
Local 111, of Lynn, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America.
Local 845, Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Revere, Mass.

MEN HELD AFTER FATAL RING FIGHT OUT ON BAIL

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 25.—Terry Martin of Philadelphia and the officials in charge of the sparring exhibition at the Auditorium last night, in which Jack McKenzie of Philadelphia died a few minutes after the close of the fifth round, gave bail early to-day for their appearance at the cornorer's inquest Wednesday.

Referee Jack Sheehan of Boston, Stephen Mahoney of Boston, manager and second for MacKenzie; Martin's manager, McGann, and John Caley, manager of the Casco Athletic Club of this city, under whose auspices the match was held, were released on $1,000 bonds each.

Martin furnished bail in $3,000. They were detained at the police station until about 4 a. m. while the affair was being investigated by County Attorney William C. Eaton and the police.

Coroner Walter G. Hay empanelled a jury and assigned the date for the inquest. In the opinion of the physicians, McKenzie, who was about twenty-six years old and leaves a widow and one child, died from the effects of a blow over the heart, the location of which was indicated by a discoloration. The same blow, a spectator said, deflected and struck under the jaw.

Scarcely half an hour before the fatal blow the young Philadelphia lad had entered the ring, apparently in the pink of condition and looking every inch a well-trained athlete. In the fifth round of what was scheduled to be a fifteen-round bout, McKenzie received a jab on the jaw from Martin, which was immediately ollowed by a blow over the heart.

This was at the end of the round and the bell clanged for the two men to separate. McKenzie walked to his corner and seated himself as his seconds began to rub him down. He had hardly seated himself when his jaw dropped and his head hung forward. It was the last time he would ever hear the bell in a prize ring.

When McKenzie failed to respond to the call for the sixth round cries of "fake, fake," and "our money back," were heard.

Six doctors climbed under the ropes and began to work on the prostrate form of the boxer, while the vast crowd, almost in a panic, realized that something serious had happened and made a wild rush over chairs and settees, trampling one another under foot in the mad rush to get a glimpse of the injured man.

Then when one of the doctors said solemnly, "The boy's dead," poor Terry with one wild cry of anguish burst into a perfect paroxysm of grief.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—"Doc" White will probably perform for the locals and George Winter for the vistiors in the second game in the series between the Pilgrims and the White Sox.

The Bostons have added another to their hospital list. The latest is Catcher Carrigan, the former Holy Cross star, who split his finger yesterday afternoon, which will necessitate his absence from the game for at least a week.

Last night Manager Stahl wired to Lou Criger at his home in Elkhardt, Ind., to report at once.

The Sox hope to do up the Pilgrims to-day as easy as they did yesterday. They are happy now that they are tied with the Highlanders for first place in the great American League race, and they figure that if they win both remaining games from the Hub team, they feel reasonably sure that the Tigers will be able to take another from the New Yorkers, and thus leave them first place alone.

Jesse Tannehill pitched the first inning for the Bostons, and was batted so hard that he had to retire in favor of Glaze.

NOLAN ANSWERS SILER; THE PICTURES WILL TELL

In a signed statement written for the BOSTON AMERICAN Billy Nolan answers the statements of George Siler with reference to his charges against the referee as follows:

BY BILLY NOLAN.

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—George Siler stated that Battling Nelson was beaten to a pulp. Allowing that this statement be true, I would like to impress on that worthy gentlemen that it takes two to play the same game. I would like to have him express himself as to what condition Gans was in up to the time of the finish.

Many people all over the country have accused Siler of being half blind, so I will not ask him to give his opinion as to what Gans's condition was before the ending of the battle. However, I would like to impress on his mind some well-known facts which his prejudice would perhaps not like to recall. After the tenth round Eddie Graney, without question one of the foremost referees of the country, who, by the way, should be a good judge of form, or, rather the condition of fighters in any stage of the battle, tried a great many times to hedge the money that he had bet on Gans, as it looked a foregone conclusion that the negro would surely be beaten.

Numberless other bets were offered by the backers of the Dane without any takers after the tenth round had passed; in fact, $500 to $300 was offered in the forty-first round, with the Dane favorite, and none of the negro supporters thought well enough of his chances to back their man, and still George Siler has the brazen nerve to come back to Chicago trying to cover up the work he had done in robbing as square and fair a little fighter as ever entered a twenty-four-foot ring for a self-confessed fakir.

I may add here that it was this same Joe Gans who fought the crookedest fight that ever took place in this country right here in Chicago, and George Siler was the referee who allowed this dirty deal to go through instead of protecting the public as should alive been done by declaring it no contest.

In my argument as to the merit of the Gans-Nelson contest, I readily admit that Gans is the superior of the Dane as a boxer and will show to better advantage, but as a fighter Nelson is the negro's superior, as was demonstrated by the way he forced the battle from start to finish, as will be clearly shown in the pictures here on next Sunday.

I claimed before and still claim that Siler did not see the alleged foul blow that knocked out Gans, and am willing to leave the public of Chicago to judge this by their own eyes in Chicago next week.

WILLIE HOPPE WILL DEFEND HIS TITLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Interest in the two big billiard contests between Willie Hoppe and Jacob Schaefer at eighteen-inch balkline, one shot in, set for October 17, and between George Slosson and George Sutton at 18.2 balkline, set for October 18, has reached that stage that inquiry has been made for tickets. Both contests will be held in Madison Square Garden Concert Hall and are for world's championship emblems.

Willie Hoppe, the 18.1 champion, will begin practice for the game with Schaefer at the room of his brother, Frank, Broadway and Thirty-first street, this week.

Slosson is in hard practice at his room on Broadway, where H. F. Cline, the clever Philadelphia shortstop player, will play with the 18.2 balkline champion. Sutton and Schaefer are in hard practice in their Chicago rooms.

Arrangements are being made for an American championship balkline tournament, open to players of the second class, to be held in New York early in November or in October after the big match games. Assured entries are: H. F. Cline of Philadelphia, Albert Cutler of Boston, Peterson of St. Louis and Thomas Gallagher and Professor Edward McLaughlin of New York. Others are expected. For this tournament the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company will give a new challenge trophy. A meeting of players interested will be held within ten days to arrange details.

ERNE COMES TO HUB TO BATTLE WITH DESHLER

"Yi, Yi" Erne, the Quaker terror of the lightweight class, arrives in the Hub to-day, as he meets Dave Deshler of Cambridge at the Lincoln A. C. to-morrow night, and their battle is carded as one of the fastest ever seen in the Chelsea arena.

Erne is a wonder at speed fighting, and can hit, too, as he won all his first contests in the ring by the knockout route, and he is also rated the cleverest boy ever developed in the city famous for six-round bouts.

He has not confined himself to short-distance bouts, as he beat Harry Lewis in scrimmages of fifteen and twenty rounds, and will be able to go the full distance against Deshler.

Deshler was no match for Erne when they met in Philadelphia less than a year ago, as the latter outpointed the Hub lad, jabbing him as he pleased with his wonderful left hand.

His left works like lightning and he never fails to outscore his opponent in ring skill, which leaves the result of the engagement with Deshler in doubt, as the latter must get to him at an early stage and take some of his swiftness out of him before he can hope to get any lead.

Deshler has shown as fast a style as any boy in the local ring, which gives Erne a remarkable reputation if he was able to show better ringcraft in their last clash, and there is little question that he won the decision over the local scrapper.

Any ring knight who could defeat Charley Neary, excels "Young Corbett" and Abe Attell should command considerable attention in his line of business.

BURR, BIG HARVARD GUARD, PUNTING

This cut shows Burr, Crimson guard, booting the ball. Yesterday he reported to Coach Reid of the Harvard football squad for the first time. He is a little lighter than he was last season, weighing only 193 pounds, but he hopes to put on some more weight in a few days.

FOOTBALL AT TUFTS.

Tufts varsity and Tufts second teams met for the first time this season on the old campus at Medford yesterday. The varsity succeeded after some difficulty in making two touchdowns, but they had a mighty good second team to line up against.

FOOTBALL NEXT SATURDAY.

Harvard vs. Williams at Soldiers Field.
Princeton vs. Villa Nova at Princeton.
Cornell vs. Colgate at Ithaca, N. Y.
U. of P. vs. Lehigh at Philadelphia.
West Point vs. Tufts at West Point.
Massachusetts A. C. vs. Holy Cross at Worcester.
Brown vs. New Hampshire State at Providence.
Carlisle vs. Albright at Carlisle.

REID NOW HAS HIS COMPLETE SQUAD AT WORK

The line men and backs of the Crimson football squad will run through the plays that Harvard will use against Williams Saturday this afternoon on Soldiers Field. To-morrow the first scrimmage work of the season will probably take place, and this form of practice will be the rule every day until the opening game.

There were three big additions to the Harvard squad yesterday. They were Quarterbacks Newhall and Starr and Guard Burr.

Coach Reid has now on hand every man that is eligible for this season's team.

Burr is lighter than he was last Fall, but he is in fine condition. Burr now weighs 193 pounds, but he expects to put on some more beef before many days.

In yesterday's practice Burr did some fine punting. In fact, it was the best seen at Cambridge yet. He sent some spiral twisters against a strong wind for forty-five yards. He also tried some place kicks from the 30-yard line with Mort Newhall holding the ball for him, and he sent the pigskin over the crossbar every time.

Starr and Newhall are both in fine fettle, and their race for the position of regular quarterback should be a merry one.

The Harvard footballists will go to the training table after the contest with Williams Saturda

Twenty-two men of the squad, including most of the promising candidates for the eleven, took the strength test yesterday, and all of them passed the examination of Dr. Sargent satisfactorily. Those men who did not take the test yesterday will be sent to the gym to-day.

There was no signal practice yesterday, but the line and the backs were taught their assignments in a few simple plays. It was expected that the men would get around to tackling the dummy, but a long talk on the new rules and the new plays given the men brought them on the field so late that the work had to be postponed.

CARDINALS IN FIRST GAME OF SERIES TODAY

Batting Order.

ST. LOUIS	BOSTON
O'Hara, l.f.	Dolan, r.f.
Burch, c.f.	Tenney, 1b.
Bennett, 2b.	Brain, c.f.
Barry, 1b.	Bates, l.f.

Harley, s.s.	Connaughton, s.s.
Noonan, c.	Cameron, l.f.
Crawford, 3b.	O'Neil, c.
Higgins, p.	Pfeffer, p.

A change of menu will be served up at the South End grounds this afternoon as the St. Louis Cardinals are the card in their last appearance in the Hub this season.

What the Tenneyites failed to do to the Pirates they hope to hand out to the Mound City lads in the three games they book up.

It's softer game for the National tail-enders and they ought to get away with a few prizes while the westerners tarry in the shade of the Walpole street diamond.

With Pfeffer adorning the slab the chances look good for a win by the locals in the opener anyway, and once in the move in the right direction the rest will come easy.

It was sweet revenge to the Pirates for being licked by the Tenneyites last week, when they captured the double-header yesterday, getting the first game by a margin of one point, 6 to 5; and the second was like finding money, 8 to 0.

But there was plenty doing outside the playing, in which the fans took a hand.

Umpire Conway got "called" on some of his pickings at the plate and did not take kindly to the way some of the players showed their disapproval. He chased Gus Dorner off the bench for giving unnecessary advice to the official and told Howard to skidoo when that player kicked on a third strike. The fans thought that Tenney's men were getting it too strong and were not slow in making the umpire aware of it the whole afternoon.

Tenney bolstered up his crew by getting old Frank Connaughton of the Haverhill team and put him at second. He seemed out of position and in the second contest was shifted to short and Howard went to the middle sack. The change failed to make much difference.

The first game was lost in the first inning, as Lindaman could not settle down before the Pirates got on his tracks and then a few bungles allowed the Smoky City lads to get a quartet of runs. It was an uphill fight for Tenney's men, but they buckled down to their work and in the eighth came within one of tying the score. The three tallies which came in that inning were the result of errors and not earned.

Lindaman pitched superbly after the disastrous initial period, as only three hits were made by the Pirates in the eight innings, but his support was very ragged.

Lefty Leifield was effective and did not have to exert himself much.

The second game was cut to seven innings to allow the Pirates to catch their train. The Pirates liked Young's twirling from the first and rattled the bingles off and gathered in the runs steadily.

"Deacon" Phillippi had his speed and got six strikeouts in the seven innings and only two locals saw second in the distance covered.

Notes of the Harness Horses

With the passing of the old Lowell track departs likely the last of the lapped half-mile courses in New England. In getting the word at Lowell the horses were started at the lower end of the homestretch, finishing, of course, at the wire, the track being the length of the stretch short of the full distance in making a mile in two trips around. Another track of the same sort was made in Barton, Vt., but that since has been altered to regulation size.

Dr. King informed Ed Bither yesterday that he had secured a position for him to act as starting judge through the Winter, and if he had known Bither was open for a job could have got for him the starting at the Clinton fair, besides several other places through the State.

There has been no more enthusiastic breeder of trotters than W. H. R. Moody of Claremont, N. H., in the past thirty years, and his closing out of all his horses was a big surprise. At one time he had about 150 head on his farm. Mr. Moody had peculiar ideas in the showing of his horses, which in the opinion of many injured his success in bringing out more fast trotters and pacers from the fashionable blood lines he used in breeding.

Tommy Burns Tired of Jawn's Delaying

CALLS O'BRIEN A FAKIR

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien has been whiling the past two weeks in California, dodging offers and making promises. There is at least one man who is very anxious to meet him, and that is Tommy Burns. But the wily Philadelphia real estate man wants to see the color of money before he binds himself down to a match. Continued procrastination on his part has inspired Burns to submit the following tirade to the public for its consideration:

"Talk about Joe Gans being a pugilistic crook," says Tommy; "this fellow O'Brien has framed more matches than any man in the ring. He owns the Philadelphia sporting writers, and that is the only reason he has been able to keep away from it so long. Jack is a good man with the press; he knows how to hand out a good line of press agent stuff. Who did he ever lick? He beat poor old Grandpa Fitz, who was licked before he got into the ring, and on that O'Brien bases his claims to be the heavyweight champion.

"I say it, and I am willing to stand by it, Jack O'Brien never fought a square fight if he could help it. He is known as a business man, always coming around to 'do business' with his opponent before signing up.

"What did he do when Seattle offered up a $10,000 purse for the Fourth of July. I was training in Philadelphia at the time, and O'Brien approached me to 'talk business.' He is too smart a fellow to come right out with the offer in so many words, but I knew what he was after and I handed it to him straight.

"'No frame-up goes with me,' I said. 'I have my own reputation to look out for, and any time you fight me you will have to fight on the square.' That was the last I heard of him. He went away and never wired his acceptance to the Seattle people. He did not want to fight me on the square.

"I think that O'Brien can lick Berger any day in the week. That last fight of theirs was nothing more than a frame-up to get more money somewhere else. I saw a letter from O'Brien in which he said that he was going to make Berger a good card. I guess he thinks he did it, for there is talk of matching them in San Francisco for $15,000, and the fight, if it takes place, will be framed in advance.

"O'Brien is a business man, but I am going to make him come to the front before he leaves for Australia. He will have to make some sort of an answer to my proposition.

"O'Brien will not dare to deny that he has been framing fights. Everybody in the business is on to him. He framed one fight with Hugo Kelly to go to a draw. He framed up another one in Indianapolis to go the same way and Hugo double-crossed Jack and beat him. He fought John Willie in Philadelphia. It was framed up. Willie knocked him out in the fifth round and O'Brien was given several minutes in which to recover. Then the fight went on. Six rounds, no decision. He fought Marvin Hart, and, honest, O'Brien was lucky to last the six rounds. He is the greatest faker in the business. Gans was never in it with him. The only difference between them is that Gans framed to lose once in a while, and O'Brien, the business man, always framed to win.

"I am going to force this man to fight me if I have to show him up from one end of the country to the other. My thousand is up. Now let O'Brien come on. I am waiting for him."

JEFFRIES SAYS HE WILL DEFEND HIS TITLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—Jim Jeffries, retired champion pugilist of the world, after a conference here with his former manager, Billy Delaney, and Eddie Graney, announced his return to the prize ring. He is ready to meet any man selected by Delaney.

It required a deal of coaxing and arguing on the part of Delaney and Graney to convince Jeffries that he should give up farming and get back into the game, but he finally was won over to their views. The big fellow left town as soon as he gave his consent and headed for Los Angeles.

When Jeffries will make his second debut in the ring and who he will fight are details yet to be worked out. The principal thing with the sports is that he has agreed to again enter the ring.

COAST FANS WANT NEALON

Huge Joseph Nealon may vanish from the National League after this season. Jack Gleason, the San Francisco manager, is doing his best to make Joe yearn for home. If Gleason has his way, Nealon will guard first sack at San Francisco next season, and Pittsburg will lose a young man who cost a barrel of money, according to advices from Chicago to-day.

It will be impossible for San Francisco to get Nealon, unless he is released or purchased from Pittsburg. San Francisco fans would extend Big Joe a royal welcome, for the Seals could use him. Nealon may not want to return East this year, and in that case arrangements might be made with Pittsburg, whereby he could play in Frisco. Nealon plays ball more for the sport of it, and therefore is in a position to do some dictating.

CLAM DIGGERS DISBAND.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 25.—The Providence baseball team, last year's champions, formally disbanded yesterday afternoon. Stocke joined the Pirates. McCloskey will finish the season with the Phillies. At least seven of the players will be retained by Manager Dunn for next season, and there will be at least five regular pitchers.

STAGG STOPS FOOTBALL.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago appeared at Marshall Field yesterday and put his foot down on all football practice there. "Nothing doing until Oct. 1," was the order. The gates of Marshal Field were rigidly closed and a no-admittance sign put on them.

FOLSOM SAYS RULES ARE BAD

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 25.—At a mass meeting held in the interests of football Coach Folsom strongly condemned the new ten-yard rule as proposed by the new rule committee. After urging upon all college men the necessity of coming out in support of the team Coach Folsom said:

"This year the game is bound to be rougher than ever before. Walter Camp, supported by the press, wanted the ten-yard rule and got it. After he had it he found all the rest of the rules would have to be changed. The new rules made on account of the ten-yard rule are all a farce and fizzle and the worst imposition ever put on the game. The 'onside kick' will furnish another danger. More men are bound to be injured this year than ever before."

Other speakers were Dr. Bowler, the trainer, Captain Glaze, Dr. Bolster, Professor Laycock and Manager McLane, Graduate Manager Lillard also addressed the meeting, pointing out the policy for the year.

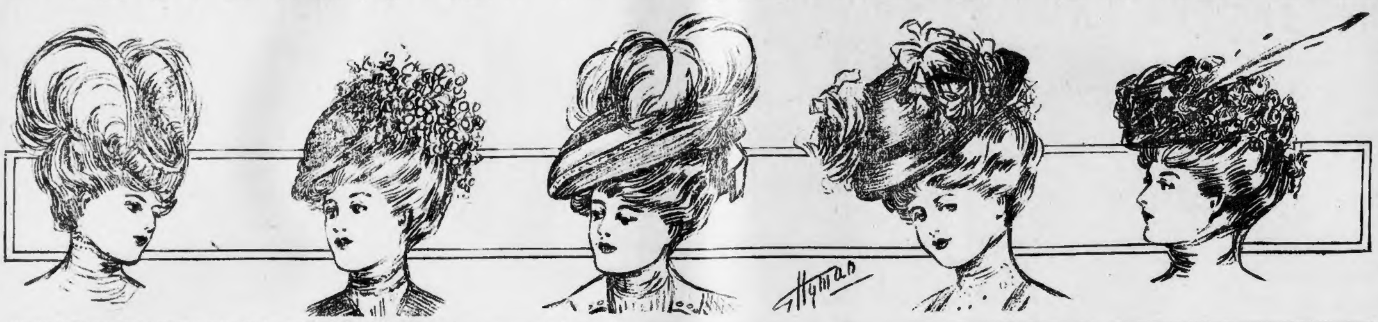
Feminine Fashion Creators Offer Charming but Sensible Styles for Every-Day, Evening and Theatre Wear in These

FIVE STUNNING NEW HAT CREATIONS FOR AUTUMN



THIS smart little toque is of violet chiffon velvet, with an under brim of gathered violet silk. It is trimmed with two large tips, one the palest of lavender, the other the lightest of blues.

IN black felt, this small mushroom-shaped hat is one of the newest Fall styles. Its only trimming is a large bunch of green grapes and leaves. It is lifted well off the head at the back.

THIS is a flat, round shape in pale blue chiffon velvet. A band of turquoise velvet ribbon over a wider Dresden one is laid across it and fastened in loops under one side of the brim.

BLACK velvet hats are very fashionable. This one is in mushroom shape, tips well over the face, and is trimmed with a large velvet rose on either side of the dome-shaped crown.

TWO rosettes of shades of lavender, a bunch of roses and a quill make this jaunty little hat.

For a theatre or a carriage hat it is ideal, as it fits snugly and is light and becoming.

Dress the Hair Becomingly if You Wish to Look Pretty and Young

"IF women would dress their hair becomingly instead of following the prevailing fashion, whether suitable or not, there would be fewer freak coiffures seen and many more young-looking women," was the remark made by a prominent hairdresser. "And incidentally," she continued, "I should like to say that a woman can add or take at least five years from her age by the way she wears her hair, and for this reason alone the styles of dressing should be carefully thought out.

"Hair is merely a frame for the features," said she, "and if it does not show them to the best advantage the fault lies with the woman, for with a little careful study and trial of various coiffures a style of hairdressing that is becoming will surely be found. If the prevailing fashion can be worn, so much the better for the one who likes all the new fads, but if not, then modifications of the new coiffures suited to the face should be adopted.

"There is but one rule that women should observe in arranging their hair, and that is to dress it in a becoming way regardless of style. Make a fashion that suits the face and not face to the style.

Poor Hairdressing

"I have seen women with really classic features and pretty coloring arrange their hair in such a way that they were positively homely, and all because they would wear coiffures in the newest fashion and the style was unbecoming.

"If women would be as artistic in the dressing of their hair as they are in the selection of their gowns they would not only have to do less planning for clothes, but undoubtedly be much more attractive, for they would be prettier.

"It is only occasionally that a woman realizes that the prevailing style does not suit the shape of her face. If she does not like it at the first dressing she says it is because the fashion is so different from the one she has been accustomed to wearing, and that when she gets used to it she will think it as becoming as the other coiffure. And she often adds: 'It is such a delightful change to have a new style; we get so tired of wearing the same one day after day for several months.'

"I know of one woman who always tries every new style that is introduced, but never wears her hair in a fashion unless it suits her face. She has studied her features with all kinds of arrangements of her hair, so that she can tell almost immediately whether the new modes will be becoming, and if one makes her face too broad or too thin she does not even consider it. She declares that by adjusting certain tresses in correct positions a woman's nose, eyes or mouth may be given prominence. The nose may be made to look long or short, while the size of the mouth may be increased or diminished. With her hairdressing is an art, but few persons understand anything about it.

Not Most Becoming

"It is the exceptional woman who asks her hairdresser to arrange a becoming coiffure. They almost invariably ask for the newest style.

"There are few women who realize that one with a fat, round face should not have a coiffure that is full on both sides, for that adds to the roundness and fleshy appearance. Instead, a dip in the shape of a curl or roll should be brought down in the centre of the forehead or a straight round pompadour worn. The hair should be well caught up from the face, for loose ends give a fluffy effect that the woman with the round shaped face will find unbecoming. A coronet braid well back on the head should be in harmony with the front.

"Now, with a large face the idea in artistic arrangement of the hair is to relieve it of the effect of bigness, and this is best accomplished with a round pompadour, provided the hair is done low on the neck in a braid or rolls that show on either side, and in this way relieve the largeness of the features.

Using False Hair

"If a woman with a long, thin face hasn't an abundance of hair she should wear false pieces, for there must be plenty of it arranged in some pretty fluffy fashion to take away the effect of lack of flesh. Then, too, there should be plenty of combs in her coiffure; one on either side and a large one in the back, ornamented with the curious olive-like decorations that are so smart just now.

"The front of the hair should be a full and high pompadour, with little tendrils fluffed out to give breadth, and the back may be made into a coronet braid and pulled far forward.

"A baby-faced woman looks best with her hair parted down the centre or on one side and tied with a bow.

"It is understood by the average woman that a tall one should wear a low coiffure and a woman small in stature a high arrangement. Incidentally, old women should never attempt to affect the youthful styles with the hair coiled low, for it is not in keeping with their faces and detracts from the dignity they should possess. Puffs on the top of the head dressed to suit the shape of the face should be the style selected.

"Women with large and ugly ears are the only ones who seem to give much thought to artistic fashions, and they are eager about them because they want to hide their defects."

Never Be a Bit Afraid of Imitating Anything That Is Worth Imitating, Whatever It May Be

By Beatrice Fairfax

WHEN I was a little girl one of the most hateful things a girl could call another girl was "Copy cat."

No matter how much we admired a thing, we could not imitate it for fear of having that dreadful word flung at us.

Foolish little things that we were; we did not understand that in many instances the "copy cat" course was the best one we could have followed.

Don't be afraid of being a "copy cat;" imitate whatever you see good in others.

If you are a shopgirl and one of your customers has a pretty, gracious manner, don't hesitate to copy it.

It is never a disgrace to copy anything that will add to your self-improvement.

But always do your copying with a view to raising yourself. To copy bad habits is indeed a disgrace.

Remember, girls, that almost every one of you has some one patterning herself after your example. It may be a younger sister or it may be a girl friend. Whoever it is, she is sure to think that everything you do is right.

So you see you bear a great responsibility. Perhaps you are imitating some one you consider better and finer in every way than you are yourself. In that case you can understand just how your admirer feels.

If you are learning bad habits and foolish customs from some one, some other person is learning the same from you. A bad habit is like an endless chain—it spreads and spreads.

If you make up your mind to copy some pretty or commendable custom don't let the ridicule of foolish people keep you from keeping to your resolve.

Even though they may call you a "copy cat," keep right on. As far as that goes, everything in the world is imitative. So why hesitate at one thing more?

The girl who imitates the gentle, lady-like manners she sees in others will get on far better than the one who ridicules them.

Imitation is the sincerest flattery, you know, so you need never be afraid of incurring the displeasure of the person you imitate.

Some people of course object strongly to being copied in dress, but that is not the kind of copying I am talking about.

I allude to the copying of good manners, and no one who has good manners will object to any one copying them.

So go ahead and copy any mannerism that will add to your own charm and benefit.

The world is full of "copy cats;" don't be afraid to join the ranks.

AID TO IRONING

STARCH will stick to the iron sometimes, but the following will prevent it somewhat: Put a little kerosene on a cloth and rub the hot iron over it three or four times, or take a cloth your lamps have been wiped off with. This keeps the starch from sticking and removes soot or stove-polish that collects on the bottom of a hot iron and soils the garment. It also gives a gloss to the clothes. There is no danger, very little is necessary.

Write Out Your Best Recipe and Win a Cook Book

Don't Send in Any More Recipes for Preserving

THE preserving season is now on the wane, and recipes for "putting up" goodies will soon be out of date. The Economy Editor has too many preserving recipes now. Therefore, if you want to win an Economy Cook Book, write some other sort of cooking gem.

Recipes for fish, meats, desserts, cake, pastry—anything you pride yourself upon—are now in order. Let us have your best kitchen secret. Have it common sense, every-day, sensible and economical.

When your recipe is printed, you will receive a copy of the BOSTON AMERICAN'S Economy Cook Book. It's a common sense book, just like the recipes. It's a blank book of 120 pages, in which you can paste chosen recipes.

It is substantially bound in heavy oilcloth, so it will stand kitchen wear and tear without damage. There is a ruled index of writing paper.

IT'S JUST WHAT HOUSEWIVES HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR FOR YEARS.

Send along your favorite recipe today. Address Economy Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street.

PEAR CHIPS

EIGHT pounds pears, one-quarter pound Canton ginger, four pounds sugar, four lemons. Wipe pears, remove stems, quarter and core; then cut in small pieces. Add sugar and ginger and let stand over night. In the morning add lemons cut in small pieces, rejecting seeds, and cook slowly three hours. Put into a stone jar. This is tried and true.

MRS. E. V. ANDREWS.
Uxbridge.

ELDERBERRY WINE

ONE peck elderberries, strip from the large stems, let stand over night in a four-gallon jar. In the morning add three gallons water, mash well till juice is extracted. Let stand five days, then strain and add sixteen pounds granulated sugar. Let work. Stir every two or three days. Bottle in five or six weeks.

MRS. M. E. WILDER.
North Scituate.

TO COOK CRANBERRIES

ADD one teacup of water to one quart of cranberries and cook for ten minutes. Sift through a colander, add two heaping cups of granulated sugar and cook about ten minutes longer. Pour into a porcelain mould. Turn out as jelly.

MRS. W. B. KIRK.
No. 115 Chatham street, Lynn.

PICKLED APPLES

ONE quart of good vinegar, six cups of brown sugar, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon, apples sweet or sour, but firm. Bring the vinegar and sugar to a boil, remove the scum and put in the spices. Pare, core and quarter the apples, and put them into the syrup. Let them boil very slowly until they can be easily pierced with a broom straw.

MRS. L. W. SHATTUCK.
No. 47 Highland street, Brockton.

CUCUMBER SAUCE

SIX large, ripe cucumbers, six large onions, two stalks celery, two green peppers, chopped fine. Salt and let stand over night. In the morning drain and add two cups of cider vinegar, two large teaspoons of celery seed, one teaspoon of mustard seed and one pound of brown sugar. Cook until clear, which will be about one-half hour, and put in jars and seal.

I have found this excellent.

Handy Things for Housewives to Know

IT would be well for some housewives to realize that the kitchen in which cleanliness reigns supreme is the one which the fewest cooking utensils are kept. But these few must be practical ones of good quality, durable and of material easily cared for.

Cast iron, also enameled ware, after being used a short time, has a rough inner surface, which it is impossible to thoroughly cleanse.

Aluminum requires very careful treatment, and in the end proves quite expensive.

Wrought iron pans lined with tin are by far the most practical. Their linings are so smooth that flavors cannot cling to them, thus rendering them capable of thorough cleansing with little trouble. They are comparatively inexpensive and their linings, when worn out, can be easily replaced with new.

HAND-PAINTED HATS

THERE seems to be no stopping in the universal race for novelty. The latest craze is for hats hand-painted with the designs of the flowers with which they are trimmed. Large leghorn hats in white and black have their brims painted with long trails of pink or white roses and trimmed with clusters of the flowers and big bows.

A very dainty toque also fashionable is of pale mauve crinoline straw, trimmed with lilac and ornamented with painted sprays of the same blossoms, which are half hidden in the folds of the straw.

"SHADOWS OF NEW YORK"

CHAPTER CXIV.

Two Men at the Door

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

WHEN he got out at the station Jim saw the man in the blue suit who had asked him about the ticket get out on to the platform, too, with another man, but the fact did not make him in the least suspicious.

Jim walked quickly to the schoolhouse, with the precious letter in his possession, the two men followed at some distance behind, never letting him get out of sight. Then they saw him run up the garden path of a cottage near the school and enter.

"Who lives there?" one of the men asked a group of school children, playing in the road.

"Oh, that's where our new teacher lives—Miss Wynne," was the answer.

"And what lady lives with Miss Wynne?" was the next question.

"Oh, nobody lives with her."

The two men retraced their steps and dropped in at a saloon.

"Nice country all about here," said one of them, as he ordered drinks. "Who owns the big place up the road? John Herries, isn't it?"

"That's so, sir."

"Well, he's a lucky chap then; that's all I can say—even if he was robbed of that big diamond. However, I expect he could afford to lose it better than you or I," he laughed.

"Hasn't been here long?"

"Meble a couple o' months; maybe more, maybe less; can't say," said the publican reflectively.

Some Inquiries

"Is he a good landlord?—that's what interests me most," said the talkative customer. "You see," he went on confidentially, "it's like this. My wife has heard of a place down here that she fancies, which I am given to understand belongs to the Herries estate; I may be inclined to take it, if the rent's right. But I believe in making a few inquiries first; practical man I am."

"Mr. Herries is all right as a landlord; you can take that straight," said the publican. "He's my landlord, and I ought to know."

"There's a school in the neighborhood, of course? Anything above a public school?"

"Oh, we haven't got a public school. We've got a school supported by the Herries family."

"Ah, that's a point my wife's very particular about. Nice schoolmistress and all that?"

"Really, I don't know much about her one way or the other; she's only just come to the school, you see. Wynne's her name. I suppose she's satisfactory or Mr. Herries wouldn't have engaged her."

"Oh, he engaged her? I'll be bound then that he chose some one young and pretty, eh?" said the man in blue serge with a laugh. "At least, if I was a bachelor and had the job of choosing that's how my choice would go, I fancy."

The landlord joined in the laugh.

More Questions

"Well, if you ask me, I shouldn't like to go so far as to say she's pretty, and I shouldn't like to say she's not——"

"That sounds mysterious. But I'll bet you're as good a judge of a pretty face as any one!" said the customer with a wink of great humor. "Come, your wife isn't about; you might as well confess it!"

The man laughed stodgily.

"Well, since the missus ain't in hearing I do flatter myself I know a pretty face from an ugly one!" he said. "But Miss Wynne—well, I shouldn't call her exactly young; her hair's wonderful gray, and she always wears a pair of big blue goggles that seem to disguise half her face, and are so disfiguring you really can't judge.

They say she came over from England; she keeps to herself pretty well here—don't make no acquaintances or nothing. A bit stand-offish, I should say."

"English women are like that when they come to America, I believe," said the talkative customer. "Don't like the sort."

"Mr. Herries used to live hereabouts, I suppose, before he succeeded to the property?" said the inquisitive customer. "You see what a chap I am for asking questions—only my wife'll expect me to know all about the place and people when I go back to-night. You know what women are!"

Deft Inquiry

The landlord smiled sympathetically.

"Don't I know!" he said, with feeling. "Well, Mr. Herries's people used to live in Springfield——" The landlord broke off to draw himself a glass of beer in response to his customer's invitation. "But Mr. Herries was abroad for some years. Why, at the time of Lionel Herries's death no one seemed to know where he was, and the solicitors had to advertise for him."

"Ah, now you mention it, I seem to remember the advertisement—just about the time of the murder it was, the murder of a dancing woman—I shall remember her name in a minute—ah, Zingara, of course! So you say he was abroad, nobody knows where, at the time? How was that?"

"Went the pace a bit too fast, I've heard," said the landlord; "ran through all his money, folks said; and I shouldn't wonder if it's true. He kept a racing stable, and had a string of unlucky horses. I backed the Herries colors a few times, so I know! It ended by him coming a cropper and——"

"And thought it best to lie low; probably took another name, I should say. Very sensible, too," said the man in blue serge, heartily. "Myself, I have no patience with broken-down people trying to keep up a big show upon nothing; it's just swindling the butcher, nothing more. Yes, you may bet he dropped the name of Herries for a time. Well, if he's known what it was to be poor he's all the more likely to be a good landlord, if I take his house."

"Some one was once pointed out to me as John Herries in Broadway," said the man who had hitherto left all the talking to his companion; "but I don't know if it was right. A man of about thirty——"

The Net Closes

And the speaker gave details of personal appearance, which, as it happened, constituted the exact description gathered by the police from Delamere and others of the missing man John Marsh, of whom no photograph had been obtainable.

"Yes, that's right. Oh, I expect it would be Mr. Herries you saw," said the landlord, little suspecting for what purpose all this information was being elicited from him. "That's him to a T. I suppose now the house you'll be going to look at is the Williams place—it's the only empty house about here belonging to Mr. Herries."

"Yes, that's the name," said the detective, hearing the name for the first time. "Well, I think we'll be moving if we're going to look over it. Good day."

And the two men departed.

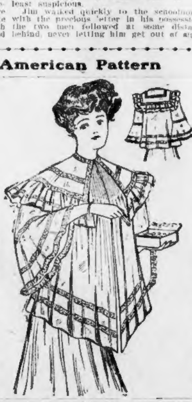
Hearst's Boston American Pattern

Ladies' Morning Jacket



No. 5,345—A becoming dressing sack or matinee forms an essential part of the well-gowned woman's wardrobe. The design here pictured was daintily reproduced in shell pink crepe de chine, trimmed with insertion of lace. Shoulder and under-arm seams are employed in shaping the garment, and the elbow sleeves are finished by a circular ruffle. The deep collar is edged by a frill of the silk. If a loose-fitting back is not desired it may be gathered at the waist line. Albatross, challis, dimity, lawn and China silk are all adaptable. The medium size will require 3½ yards of 36-inch material.

No. 5,345—Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

To obtain this pattern, postpaid, send 10 cents and the size, name and address to HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 236, Boston, Mass.

Some Common Deformities of the Ears

NOTHING so readily spoils the attractiveness of the Face as distorted, misshapen or outstanding Ears. They cannot be hidden by clothing, and by giving you a ridiculous appearance often come between you and success. Many folks judge character by the Features, and you cannot expect advancement unless you bear the "ear marks" of intelligence and refinement.

The Enlarged "Apron-Like" Lobe. Ear with Top Drooping Forward. The Flamboyant or Outstanding Ear.

When correcting these deformities the operator always studies the contour of the face and sets the ears at just the right distance from the head, thereby making perfect the symmetry of the features.

Mark the ear which is most like yours, then cut out this advertisement and return it to us and we will advise you how they may be corrected.

STANDARD AMERICAN AIRS
A Medley Overture
INTRODUCING
Selected and Arranged By George Rosey

50c Music for 15c

We offer you for a limited time a medley overture of "Standard American Airs" for piano. This is the greatest piece of its kind on the market to-day, being a superb collection of America's Standard National Airs, consisting of fourteen (14) numbers, including "Marching Through Georgia," "Good-Night, Ladies," "Dixieland," "Star Spangled Banner" and "My Old Kentucky Home." It is the greatest value for the money ever offered you, as it is a piece that will not grow old, but will live for a decade—not for a day, like a song—and the oftener you play it the better you and your friends will like it. This is a composition that is easily worth five times what we ask for it—15 cents per copy, postpaid.

In order to share in this remarkable offer be sure to cut out and mail the coupon below at once.

Music Dept., New York Journal, 1789 Broadway, New York City. COUPON

Please send me one regularly listed 50c copy of "Standard American Airs" for piano, for which I am enclosing 15c. (If coin, wrap securely.)

THREE SHOPPING PHOTOS IDENTIFIED BY ORIGINALS

Each Lucky Woman Shopper Receives the Daily Award of $2.

THE daily snapshots of women shoppers in last Friday's and Saturday's BOSTON AMERICAN have been identified by the lucky women who were caught by the Camera Man.

Friday's photo was an excellent likeness of Mrs. R. S. Moore of No. 145 Belmont street, Everett. Saturday's snapshot was identified by Mrs. L. N. Champean of No. 633 Washington street, Boston. The picture was taken in front of the main entrance of Jordan Marsh's Thursday, about noon.

Remember, one of these shopping snapshots is taken daily in the shopping district. When your picture appears all you have to do to win the daily prize is to call and identify it, and the money is yours.

The Original of This Snapshot Will Receive a Prize of $2.

Don't Pay Piano Trust Big Profits

Just remember that we pay no commissions of any kind. We have no high rents to pay, no big agents' or retailers' profits to get out of you, no teachers' little "Rake off" to take out of your pocket. All these sums of money must be added to the original legitimate profit of the maker when you buy a piano at the Gilded Piano Warerooms down in the High Rent District—and remember you pay it all.

Once More They Ask, "What Is a Gentleman?"

He is a CURIOSITY, Pretty Often. Mr. Bonaparte's Definition Doesn't Seem to Help Much

Every few minutes in this world somebody asks, "What is a gentleman?" and then we get all kinds of answers.

Sometimes we discover that the gentleman is one who takes better care of his fingernails than he does of his morals.

At other times we find that he is an individual whose father earned or stole enough money to let him live without work.

Mr. Bonaparte, our Secretary of the Navy, gives us a new definition.

Mr. Bonaparte, as you know, is a kind of a descendant of the great Napoleon Bonaparte—a sort of intellectually poor relation. The cab horse you see occasionally is a puffed up, nervous, worried animal of whom you are told that his father was a great race winner. That's the kind of a cab horse Mr. Bonaparte is. He has the small waist, the small views—but he hasn't the speed or the staying power.

Mr. Bonaparte was talking to the young men of the Annapolis Naval School about that old question, "The Gentleman," and he said:

"Its essential meaning is that of you are required a measure of self-control, a readiness of self-sacrifice, a sensitiveness in honor which it might not be reasonable to expect of all your fellow citizens."

Mr. Bonaparte gives us an excellent definition of a snob, while trying to define a gentleman.

The time has gone by for getting excited about the gentleman, his definition, his characteristics, etc.

But this much is certain: The man who, in the words of Bonaparte, imagines himself possessed of self-control, self-sacrifice, sensitiveness and honor ABOVE other human beings is about as little of a gentleman as Mr. Bonaparte is of a statesman.

Every man, "gentleman" or otherwise, who amounts to anything is supposed to give other human beings credit for being about as good as himself and for having qualities about as good.

Mr. Bonaparte's definition describes pretty well one of the French geese that danced around in tight clothes, foolish ornaments and preposterous titles in the days when Napoleon was making himself and other rulers idiotic.

We don't mean to cumber the ground with additional definitions of the tiresome word "gentleman." But our definition OF A MAN would be, "One who minds his own business, admits the equality and the rights of other human beings, thinks more about what he owes to others and to society in general than he does about himself or his own importance."

How Does Jerome Feel?

He Has Learned That the People DO Know Something

Mr. Jerome is no longer important. His days for fooling the people are over. But he is still interesting.

He is interesting, because the vain, self-deceived, self-confident man is bound to be interesting when he discovers that people know what he is, when he hears his little balloon of egotism ex—posed.

It would be entertaining to look into Mr. Jerome's mind now, as he steals to town to collect his salary and then goes out "to rest" again.

How does he feel about the people? Has he learned that they no longer care for employes of the big insurance and traction men—even when these employes dress up as "reformers"?

How does he feel about his own position in the world? Has he discovered that even the newspapers which flattered him as part of their fawning on his rich masters have tired of him? How does it strike him to find that even the newspapers most open and shameless in their support of Wall Street corruptionists are almost ashamed to speak of Jerome or his pretensions to-day?

It is said that the people can be fooled indefinitely, and sometimes that seems to be true.

But in the case of Jerome the one strong lesson has been enough.

His day is passed. He lies neglected, like a child's punctured balloon. Mr. Ryan and Mr. Perkins have got to find something else to play with.

How does this punctured balloon feel, how ridiculous does he seem in his own mind when he considers his recent proud, foolish announcement that he would again "ACCEPT" public office?

Little Editorials from the People

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The story concerning the accident to the Follinsbee boy at Bayside has been very much misrepresented. The facts are that the boy was put in charge of Dr. Frank Ellsworth Allard, No. 373 Commonwealth avenue, as soon after the accident as he could be reached, which was early the next morning, the accident having happened about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The following morning Dr. Allard thought it wise to have an examination by Dr. F. M. Richardson, after which the boy was moved to the hospital, where he could receive more expert attention. Mr. Follinsbee never refused to have surgical advice on the case, as the mere mechanical operations of surgery do not interfere materially with Christian Science practice, and it is the custom of Christian Scientists to employ a surgeon in the case of broken bones, while Christian Science is utilized to relieve the inflammation and suffering and hasten the recovery of the patient. Mr. Follinsbee preferred the employment of a physician whom he knew to a stranger. He did object to a strange physician who offered his services and wanted to give hyperdermic injections to the boy, who was perfectly conscious and in no pain.

Mr. Follinsbee was not coerced by threats and was not aware of any indignation meeting. Both Mr. Allard and Dr. Richardson agreed that it was not advisable to perform an operation, and assured Mr. Follinsbee that in no sense had the boy been neglected and that he had nothing to reproach himself with.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Your editorials on teaching and schools will, I hope, pave the way for an editorial on teachers in their capacity of public servants and their salaries for such service.

I speak of this class of public servants because statistics relating to their number, salaries, etc., can be obtained at Washington, D. C. What is true of this class of workers is true of all laborers of whatever grade in this country.

Why is it that this country employs 500,000 teachers to educate its young, requires of them all several years of preparation and continued progress at their own expense along educational lines and then grudgingly pays them less than a living wage? Statistics show that more than 400,000 teachers in this country receive less per year than ignorant men who work for the government with pick and shovel.

This startling condition is due to three natural causes:

1. The government from earliest colonial days stupidly aimed to pay its bills by begging from the common people in the form of taxation.

2. The thought of making city, State and national government self supporting by operating railroads, mines and water commerce never dawned (until recently) on the common people.

3. Rich tax dodgers were not and are not now hunted down because statistics relating to taxable property, the income and output of municipal, State and national governments, have not been printed for the common people whose money goes to defray public expenses. The general public is ignorant of this vital data. Every drug store should have beside its directory a book containing the "housekeeping" facts of the nation. Rich autocrats, wiser than their generation, should be despoiled of the money that belongs to the nation; printed data of the use of public money should be placed at the disposal of the people.

I do not believe that the general public of Boston, for instance, would permit its normal graduates, after a four years' high school course and a two years' normal course, to work in classes of fifty-six pupils for $7 a week—a sum that little Hull would blush to pay. I do not believe that the general public of Boston, New York or any city or town in this land considers its teachers time servers who simply "live and fill a place." They don't "live," they merely exist on a pittance. What will public servants do to establish "Independence Leagues?"

Boston. ADELIA MAIN.

GEE PERC, WE'RE UP AGAINST IT. THE LANDLADY IS AFTER US FOR THE TWO WEEKS RENT WE OWE HER. SCAT YOU BRUTE!
HOLD ON A MINUTE FERD. COME HERE PUSSIE. SAY I'VE A GREAT SCHEME. LET'S HIDE THE LANDLADY'S CAT. SHE THINKS THE WORLD OF IT, AND AFTER 2 OR 3 DAYS, WE'LL "FIND" IT FOR HER. PERHAPS THAT'LL EASE HER OFF A BIT ON THE RENT.
1
NEVER MIND SWEEPING THE ROOM THIS WEEK MAGNOLIA. IT'S CLEAN ENOUGH. HERE'S A DIME. GO BLOW YOURSELF TO AN ICE-CREAM.
AND DON'T DISTURB US IN ANYWAY MAGNOLIA. WE'RE WRITING A BOOK AND MUST BE VERY QUIET.
2
THAT'S TOO BAD! AND YOU HAVEN'T FOUND YOUR PUSSIE YET!
SAY FERD, ONE OF THE CASH GIRLS ON THE MAIN FLOOR AT THE STORE THIS MORNING, SPOKE ABOUT FINDING A LOST CAT. I'LL ASK HER THE FIRST THING TO-MORROW. SHE LIVES IN THE NEXT BLOCK, AND VERY LIKELY IT'S THE SAME CAT.
OH BOYS! IF YOU ONLY KNEW HOW I MISS MY PET. I WOULD GIVE ANYTHING TO HAVE MY ANGELINA BACK AGAIN.
3
THE PSYCHOLOGICAL MOMENT HAS CAME, WE PRODUCE THE CAT AND PLAY OUR TRUMP CARD. THE LANDLADY WILL BE TICKLED TO DEATH. - HOPE SHE WON'T SUSPECT IF SHE SEES US GOING OUT WITH THE VALISE. WE'LL TELL HER WE'RE GOING AFTER THE - - - HANG THIS CAT! CUT OUT YOUR SOLILOQUIZING FERD. GET BUSY AND HOLD HER HIND LEGS. MY HANDS WILL BE A SIGHT ALL SCRATCHED UP. JUST IMAGINE MEASURING RIBBON HOW THEY'LL LOOK.
4
AH - GOOD EVENING BOYS. DID YOU ASK THE YOUNG LADY ABOUT MY - - - - WHAT'S ALL THAT NOISE IN YOUR VALISE?
YES, WE WERE JUST GOING AFTER - - - - - -
HEAVENS - - - FERDIE - DID YOU PUT - - - IT MUST BE A CAT - - -

A Cup of Coffee

By Morton Birge

The latest Ward 8 city employe to be fired by the Mayor's coercion program is John F. Coffey.

THE Mayor made a little cup of coffee,
And a Coffey found the coffee pretty hard,
For this Coffey was formerly a feeder
In the city West End sanitary yard.
Now, Coffey didn't care for such refreshment,
For he liked the way that things were going on;
But Fitzy said, "I made it for you, Coffey;
It's a little demi-tasse from Demi-John."
"I think that you have strained a point"
says Coffey,
"I am sure that you are playing out of bounds,
I'd like to know the reason for your action."
And the Mayor gaily said, "On Coffey grounds."
"I guess this time that Coffey's getting roasted,"
Answered Coffey, boiling over then and there,
The Mayor said, to cap the situation,
"I should say that Coffey's settled now for fair."

THE TIDES

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

BE careful what rubbish you toss in the tide,
On outgoing billows it drifts from your sight,
But back on the incoming waves it may ride
And land at your threshold again before night.
Be careful what rubbish you toss in the tide.

Be careful what follies you toss in life's sea,
On bright dancing billows they drift far away,
But back on the Nemesis tides they may be Thrown down at your threshold unwelcome some day.
Be careful what follies you toss in youth's sea.

Take Us or Leave Us

By Winifred Black

MARIE CORELLI says she hates Americans; so does Maxim Gorky. Bishop Potter says that all Englishmen hate Americans. Well, what of it if they do?

What earthly difference does it make to us whether the English like us or not? I'm a good deal like a friend of mine whose mother was worrying about whether the girls in the new boarding school would be nice to her.

"Dear me," said my little friend, "why are you so anxious about that? All that's keeping me awake nights is that I'm trying to decide whether I'll be nice to them."

Of all disagreeable nations and disagreeable people in the world, give me either the nation or the person that is worried to death for fear the whole world won't like him.

Do you know a little goose of an anxious, wrinkle-browed woman, who is so afraid nobody likes her that she'll agree with anything anybody says, just to be agreeable?

Do you find her agreeable? I do not. She's only a shade more unpleasant than the person who disagrees with every word you say, just because she thinks you'll imagine she's trying to curry favor with you if she happens to like her oysters cooked in the same way that you do.

Self-consciousness is the great American fault, and I'd rather take a walk with a windmill than to go for a stroll with the self-conscious person who can't get far enough away from himself to enjoy the scenery for fear it isn't becoming to his complexion.

When I go to England, I go there to have a good time, and the way I have a good time is to see all the things that are different from the things I see at home. If an Englishman doesn't like me or my nationality, why, that makes him all the more interesting as a study in contrast.

What if he doesn't like me? Very likely I don't like him either; but that doesn't alter the fact that he may be a most amusing and interesting person to meet, after all.

I know lots of people that I don't like at all, really, but I like to be with them well enough, because they entertain or amuse or astonish or surprise me all the time, and some of the people I like best in the world would bore me to death if I had to spend my time with them.

When I meet a different woman, I don't want to spend my time wondering whether she likes me or not. I want to find out whether she's worth while spending my time with or not. Some people are good for tonics, some are good for sedatives, and some are good for plain, steady, every-day diet.

Every man and every woman has a place in the world, and a place that is all right, too, if we'd only stop trying to whittle them down or to pad them out to fit where they don't belong.

The Scarlet Salvia

By Harry B. Metcalf

THE Summer, loth to take her leave without some token tender,
Lest millions who've made merry may regard the future drear,
Calls forth from fruitful Mother Earth the brightest she can render,
And leaves the scarlet salvia as emblem of good cheer.
